ANNEXATION TO BE FOUGHT IN NEW DISTRICT

Owen Emory Informs Council
That Increase in Water
Rate Is the Cause

DAVIS SAYS DIFFERENT

Declares That New Site for High School Is Reason for Proposed Fight

Owen C. Emory appeared before the city council last night as speaker for a committee from the chamber of commerce, and asked the council to define the status of the territory in the northwest part of the district that is now considering annexation to Glendale. He also asked for information in regard to a rumored increase in water rates.

Mr. Emory was informed that inasmuch as the water department was losing between $4,000 and $5,000 annually the water rate will undoubtedly be raised very soon. He was also assured that the increase would only be sufficient to put the department on a self-supporting basis and that the bulk of the increase would fall on the big users of water, such as truck gardeners and ranchers. The small water users would not be affected.

The reason for inquiring as to the status of the northeast territory in the event of its annexation and the increase in the water rate, according to Mr. Emory, was to assure the people in the proposed annexation district as to where they will stand under the increase in the case they vote to annex. Mr. Emory also intimated that the increase in the water rate will be a big question in the matter of annexation and that there were many who would vote against annexation on account of a water rate increase. He said that the rumor is that the rate will be increased from 3 to 7 cents and that if such is the case the territory will probably be lost to Glendale as there were many in the district who say they cannot afford to pay that rate.

The council assured Mr. Emory that while the water rate the city would be increased, it would not bring the rate to 7 cents and that the average consumer would not be affected by the increase.

It was intimated by Mr. Emory that annexation might be lost because Burbank people are using the argument that Glendale is preparing to increase the water rate as soon as the territory becomes a part of this city.

Councilman Davis informed Mr. Emory that is the district in the district is lost to Glendale the water rate increase will not be responsible. He said that the fact that the high school is to be moved from its present location to a site on East Broadway and Verdugo road on the recommendation of the chamber of commerce high school location committee, would be the direct cause of the loss of this territory if the annexation question is voted down.

BORAH DECLARES IT IS UNFORTUNATE TO DAMPEN SPIRIT

Senator Says Conference on Arms Is More Important
Than War Question

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Harding's letter declaring total disarmament out of the question at this time, is an unfortunate attempt to dampen the national enthusiasm over the coming international conference, Senator Borah said today. Borah, author of the original disarmament resolution in the Senate, declared that men were sent to prison during the war for disparaging utterances.

"This conference is more important in some ways than the war," said Borah, "and the people should not be led to expect little or nothing of it."

STEAM HEAT LOVE IS NOT AS LASTING AS FIREPLACE KIND

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Blame for American tendency away from marriage was placed separately upon the gilded back of the steam radiator today, Annette Abbott Adams, until recently assistant United States attorney general, put it there, to the surprise of a meeting of the California development association.

"I have heard of a young man proposing to a girl sitting in front of a steam radiator?" she asked, and no one answered.

"You can steam heat an apartment but it won't warm the heart," she added.

"I favor a return to the open fire and the old fashioned cookstove. Seated around a cozy fire, a young man is far more likely to propose than at any other place—except a moonlit garden."

You Can Pin Medals
On Heroes Every Day
if You Have Courage

Don't let the Government pin on all the medals, says James W. Foley tonight in "The Listening Post," that splendid feature of this paper which runs on the editorial page. "When you know a good deed has been done, or a bit of praiseworthy work accomplished, be a little medal-pinner yourself—tell some unknown hero you are proud of him."

Henry James in his comments deals with hasty marriage and divorce, and he sees where the law is amiss. He also comments on the nerve of Babe Ruth, whom Mr. James politely calls George Ruth.

Dr. Frank Crane tells of the raising of fur foxes, and there are editorials on "Capital Punishment," "Forgiving the Debts," "Probation" and "Aggressive Policies."

It is an editorial page that is of interest to all members of the family. It deals with subjects that are alive and deals with them in a manner that you will admire. We want you to get the habit of reading it each evening.

Indio is in a state of great excitement over the arrest of the Mexican.

GUTHRIE ASKS CITY TO RELIEVE FOLKS IN NORTH PART

Question of Water Mains and Curbing Brought to Attention of Council

Charles B. Guthrie appeared before the city council last night and asked for some relief to the subdivision on Highland avenue between Sixth avenue and Kenneth road, in the matter of curbing. Mr. Guthrie declares that previous to annexation a portion of the curbing was installed and that since this territory has been annexed the remainder of the curbing has been put in, and according to the grades established, the two jobs of curb work do not connect properly. At certain spots the curbing is 18 inches above the lot which it adjoins.

Mr. Guthrie also stated that when the subdivision was opened he was notified that four-inch water mains would be installed at the expense of the residents and that these mains would have to be given to the city absolutely without cost.

Mr. Guthrie asked relief from this situation on the plea that he had discovered an old resolution, known as Resolution No. 1065, and signed by G. B. Woodberry, former member of the board of trustees, who was acting chairman of the board at the time this resolution was passed. It states that the residents of the section must install the four-inch mains, but when installed, to be leased to the city at $1 per year. The city, according to the resolution, has the option to purchase the mains at any time and add them to the water system of the city. Mr. Guthrie asked that the council look into the matter as outlined, and take steps for the relief of the people represented by him.

RANDALL GLENDALE POSTOFFICE BILL IS ENTERING WEDGE

The history of Glendale's determined fight for an independent postoffice is recalled to citizens by files of the Glendale Press, which reveal that a few days before Congressman Charles H. Randall retired from the house of representatives last March 4, his bill to create an independent postoffice in this city was reported out favorably by the house postoffice committee.

The measure was introduced several months previous to this, and when it was reported out and placed on the calendar, the jam of bills before the house found the Glendale postoffice bill snowed under. Congressman Randall's term expired, and when Congress reconvened, it was not revived.

The constant pressure brought to bear on the postoffice department by the chamber of commerce here and the aid of Congressman Lineberger is no doubt responsible for Postmaster General Hayes' action in granting the request.

It is interesting to note that Glendale's fortune in being designated an independent postoffice is the second instance in 20 years where a substitution has been elevated to an independent office. Congressman Randall found that years ago, a Boston substitution was made an independent office and with this precedent, Congressman Randall went to work. His bill was prepared and introduced and later reported out favorably by the committee but "fate" buried it in the avalanche of bills at the close of the last session of Congress.

With the Boston case before it, and with the Randall bill approved by the house committee, the postoffice department no doubt reached its decision when Congressman Lineberger and numerous requests from Glendale again brought the situation here to issue.

PROGRESS TO PEACE IS SEEN TODAY IN IRISH PARLEY

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Definite progress towards peace has been made by the Irish conference. This announcement was made today when the sub-committees reported to the delegates the result of their conversations yesterday. After today's session, the work of the conference will consist largely in negotiations between sub-committees.

Sinn Fein headquarters explained that the statement attributed to Michael Collins at yesterday's session, "We are not coming back, was, if made, 'Only Mickey's' little joke." The sub-committees have made definite progress towards an understanding regarding observance of the truce. Despite the official optimism, however, it was felt the demand of the Sinn Fein for the release of prisoners would cause difficulties before the conference had proceeded much farther.

Today's session lasted less than two hours and the delegates adjourned at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The next meeting of the conference was scheduled for 1:30 Monday afternoon, October 17. The time was arranged so as not to conflict with the ceremonies incident to the decoration of the unknown warrior's grave by American Ambassador Harvey.

SPITE MARRIAGE NOW IN DIVORCE COURT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Married just for spite. This is the amazing statement made by a bride a few minutes after she had been wed, according to an annulment action filed yesterday by Alexander Phillips against Gladys Phillips. Mrs. Phillips would never live with her husband, the complaint charges.

According to Mr. Phillips' account, the couple were married in San Francisco after a prolonged courtship. Immediately after the ceremony Mrs. Phillips announced, it is stated, that she married Phillips just to spite her parents, who opposed the marriage.

The temperature is now as cold as that of the average cold storage house and will get lower as winter comes on.

Councilman C. E. Kimlin was born near Denver, Colo., in 1880 and lived there through his boyhood and school days, but really did not begin to live until he moved to Glendale eight years ago.

In June, 1913, Mr. Kimlin came to Glendale as business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. He is a member of the board of directors and directly responsible for the business of the institution. He is vice-president of the Glendale Welfare Council and a member of the board of directors of the Glendale State Bank. He is an active member of the chamber of commerce and always working for the best interests of Glendale.

SWIMMING POOL WILL BE STARTED WHEN BONDS ARE SOLD

Council Gives Out Statement
Regarding Status of the Swimming Pool Bonds

Work of constructing the city swimming pool on Patterson avenue will be started as soon as the recently voted bonds for the project are sold. This was decided last night at the meeting of the city council.

On motion of Councilman S. A. Davis, the following resolution was adopted:

"On account of statements being made that we are delaying the work on the swimming pool, when the facts are that there has been no delay in getting the approval of the bonds, therefore, it is hereby resolved that it is the intention of this council to begin the work on the swimming pool to be located in Patterson Avenue Park, as soon as said bonds are sold."

The swimming pool has been the subject of considerable discussion among residents of the city for some time. Many have been of the opinion that the issue was being sidetracked and that now that bonds have been voted, the council was in no hurry to start work on the pool.

Several contributors to a fund recently raised to assist in building the pool have made the request that their donations be returned.

JAPANESE WOMEN IN FAVOR OF WORLD DISARMAMENT

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 14.—"Hope and gratitude for the coming disarmament conference," was the message brought to Seattle today by Madam Kaji Yajima, leader of the women of Japan who are awakening to their interest in public affairs.

Despite her 89 years, the veteran leader who first came into public notice by organizing the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Japan, is enroute to Washington to be there while the conference on limitation of armaments is in session.

"I come to present the sentiments of my countrywomen in favor of world disarmament," she declared in an interview today. "The women of Japan know that the burden of wars fall heavy upon them. I bring their message of hope and gratitude for the coming conference and faith that it will be a foundation for world peace. I speak no language but my own, yet I know that God knows every language and so I have come to pray quietly with my sisters here."

SEAFARER HAS $20,000 LOAD SCOTCH SPIRITS

Fifteen Barrels of Liquor That

BIG RING IS SUSPECTED

Mysterious Woman Gives Tip
to Officers, Who Follow
Boat to "Still"

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 14.—The Seafarer, a 27-ton power schooner, 15 barrels of Scotch whisky valued at $20,000 and Captain Robert Bean and M. McLain, crew of the boat, today are head by United States customs officers pending the placing of liquor smuggling charges against the two men.

A telephone "tip" from a mysterious woman yesterday led to the pursuit and capture of the liquor laden Seafarer eight miles southwest of Point Loma after the vessel had cleared from San Diego harbor. The capture was made by the United States coast guard cutter Tingard, assisted by the United States scout cruiser Birmingham.

Federal officers observed the Seafarer anchor off the North Colorado Island and then saw Bean and McLain recover and load the 15 barrels of whisky from six fathoms of water where the liquor barrels had been cached.

It is believed the Seafarer is a unit of an alleged $2,000,000 liquor smuggling syndicate operating between Escondido, San Diego, Los Angeles, and San Francisco.

HIGHTOWER GUILTY IS VERDICT OF JURY LAST NIGHT

Convicted Man Says He Is Not Guilty but Knew He Would Be Convicted

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Oct. 14.—"Regardless of what the jury and public may think, I'm innocent," declared Wm. Hightower today as his comment on the action of a jury late yesterday in convicting him of the murder of the Rev. Father Patrick Heslin.

"Yes, I knew I was going to be convicted," he added. Hightower will be sentenced tomorrow.

The jury reached its verdict after one hour and fifty minutes deliberation. The verdict carried a recommendation for life imprisonment, which has the effect of saving the convicted man from the gallows.

Hightower seemed little interested in the verdict. He chewed gum as the words sending him to prison for life were spoken, no differently from the way he had chewed throughout the trial. His face never changed expression. Peggy Curtis-True, Hightower's "dream girl," attempted to reach Hightower as the verdict was read, but the guards held her back.

FRANK HAD A HUNCH ABOUT THIRTEENTH

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 14.—Because Frank Tilley, negro, had a "hunch" that 13 is his unlucky day, his preliminary trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was postponed yesterday until October 20. A large crowd of spectators, including many witnesses, among them prominent physicians and the District Attorney, filed disconsolately away. Tillie Wren, a negro woman, alleges that Frank Tilley wielded a pick handle with such vigor over the head of her husband as to seriously injure him.

Investment Questions

Question—What is the meaning of "Preferred," as used in "Preferred Stock"?

Answer—A great many corporations issue two kinds of stock—Preferred and Common. The difference between the two classes is that the dividends on the Preferred stock must be provided for before the directors may declare a dividend on the Common stock; also, in case the business should be sold, the Preferred stockholders are entitled to receive the full par value of their stock before the Common stockholders may be remunerated for their shares. Further, the dividend rate on Preferred stock is usually fixed by the charter of the corporation, while the rate on Common stock is determined by the amount available for dividends after the Preferred dividend has been paid.

HARRY DUFFIELD IS BEHIND SCENES OF GREAT DIVIDE DRIVE FOR BIG FUND FOR NEW CHURCH STARTED HERE

Beloved Actor of Old School
Died at His Home
Last Evening

Not unexpected, but none the less a great grief to his friends, was the death of Harry S. Duffield, veteran actor, at his home, 2742 Francis street, Los Angeles, last night. To Glendaleans he was especially dear, for this city was his home for many years.

Mrs. Dora Glazier of East Lomita avenue, who was a close friend of the Duffields, recalls the time, 15 years ago, when Mr. Duffield and her husband were associated at the Burbank theater in a stock company, reputed to be the best in the United States, and which was the foundation of the success achieved by Oliver Morosco as a producer.

He was wise enough to seek the best talent and to pay good salaries, and he assembled talented and industrious players devoted to their art like the like of which is not to be found in any company on the stage today.

As a young man, Mr. Duffield was a very handsome and popular juvenile lead. Since he entered a life contract with Mr. Morosco he has played the roles of an elderly man and won fresh and lasting laurels.

He was one of the first of the actors' colony to come to Glendale and he built a home on West Lomita, now owned by his old-time professional friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Neill. Later, he built another home adjoining that of Mr. Neill, which was sold to Mrs. Rambeau, when the Duffields decided to move to Los Angeles.

Soon after, the Glaziers came to this city and built their home on East Lomita avenue, which Mrs. Glazier and her son still occupy, and the Fishers bought on Central avenue. The intimacy that has ever since been maintained by this group and the professional friends who came and went at these homes will always be a precious remembrance, and the death of Mr. Duffield is a serious break in the links that bound them together.

Mr. Duffield was about 75 years old and recently celebrated the 59th anniversary of his debut on the stage. He was born in New Orleans and first came to Los Angeles in 1896. He was a loyal Elk and honorary chairman of Los Angeles Lodge No. 99. His participation in parades and other affairs connected with the Elks' convention in Santa Cruz are believed to have hastened his death. He leaves a widow, son and daughter.

TOURIST PARK IS LATEST ADDITION

Glendale is soon to have a first-class tourist park. It will be a place where either the tourist who is passing through this city or who comes here to remain a while, may pitch his tent.

The park will be started by F. E. Clinnen, who has just purchased four acres on East Palmer avenue. There will be running water in various parts of the park and lavatories. The idea is to make this a place of beauty, with trees and flowers.

Mr. Clinnen and his family have just arrived in Glendale from Boulder, Colo., and expect to make their permanent home here. Mr. Clinnen purchased this property from Earl Welch, the sale being made through the Pollock & Aamoth Co. of South Brand.

Poverty is inconvenient and ignorance is a great handicap, but only tactlessness is utterly ruinous.

Presbyterians to Get $150,000
in One Week for New House of Worship

Seventy-five men of the Glendale Presbyterian church met around the dinner tables in the parlors of the church Thursday evening and enthusiastically heard plans and gave their hearty pledge to earnestly cooperate in putting over the financial campaign for raising the necessary amount for the erection of the proposed new $150,000 church building.

After a most appetizing dinner, served by the ladies of the church, Dr. J. K. Glickerson, chairman of the building committee, in a few well-chosen words introduced Rev. Walter E. Edmonds, the pastor, who emphasized the meaning of the gathering of the churchmen at this time, and concluded by stating that he is pleased to have as their special invited guest Rev. Wark, late pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Pomona, adding that many good features in connection with this new Pomona church will likely be incorporated in the new Presbyterian structure in Glendale. He also spoke of the important work to which Rev. Wark had been called, in having charge of a campaign to raise a fund of $10,000,000 for Pomona College.

Rev. Wark told the men the necessity of a set program for carrying out their object, and never to lose sight of the fact that they were to have a part in erecting a building to the glory of God and that great things are always based upon simple principles. He noted the fact that a great responsibility is laid on the church to properly care for the children, in not only providing proper church facilities for them, but to care for their education, making use of a remark of President Burton of the University of Michigan, that from 80 to 85 per cent of the students of that great institution came from Christian homes.

Mr. Wark showed that the Christian people of this country had gotten behind the great educational institutions of this country, as well as behind the hospitals, etc. He said:

"What you build will always tell the story of what you think of the religion you profess. Always plan for the future. Make your building adequately large enough for future decades."

Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor, was introduced as one who would have a leading part in the erection of the new sanctuary. Mr. Tinning pledged his best efforts in carrying out the wishes of the members of the church.

It was announced by the chairman that it was decided to divide the men into two distinct camps for the coming canvass during the week of October 30 to November 6. He named Howard L. Brown as the head of one division and A. L. Baird to have charge of the other. It was also decided that the side raising the least amount in the canvass should give a dinner to the winning side. The two generals then selected their division of 35 men, each division to have five teams of seven men each.

The captains of Mr. Brown's team are H. L. Finlay, G. F. Snyder, H. M. Stadt, W. H. Barnes and W. E. McCormick. Captains of Mr. Baird's team are James Cooper, G. D. McDill, Rex Kelley, S. A. Forrester and Mr. Eastman. The generals of the two divisions held separate conferences with their forces and laid out plans for the coming canvass, with an "I will" that surely spells success.

BUSINESS WOMEN HOLD BIG MEETING

An enthusiastic meeting was held last night at the chamber of commerce headquarters by the Glendale Business Women's Club, at which about 40 business and professional women organized, with a corps of officers, constitution and by-laws.

Dr. Laura Brown acted as temporary chairman and Miss Sara Pollard was secretary pro tem.

The club was addressed by Secretary Rhoades and Assistant Secretary Sanders of the chamber of commerce, who expressed their satisfaction in the organization, predicted a great future for it, and invited it to use the chamber headquarters as a meeting place.

Miss Ora Belle Chilton, representing the Faculty Women's Club of the University of California, southern branch, and Miss Jane Humphries, chairman of membership of the Los Angeles county and State Federation of Business Women's Clubs, next addressed the club, bringing the greetings from the organizations they represented and congratulations on the brave start that has been made in Glendale.

They set forth the advantages to business women of combining for mutual pleasure and benefit and also the advantage to the individual club of the county and state federation.

About 30 have already enrolled as members and more have announced an intention of joining. The charter will remain open until the meeting of November 8, and in the meantime an effort will be made to enroll all women eligible to membership. That will mean all women who support themselves wholly or in part. Women who have been self-supporting in the past can also join as associate members.

Officers elected last night were: President, Mrs. Margaret Biggs; vice president, Miss Margaret Cross; recording secretary, Miss Neva Vesey; corresponding secretary, Miss Sara Pollard; treasurer, Dr. Caroline Paine Jackson; and eight counsellors who, with the officers, will constitute the executive committee—Dr. Laura Brown, Mrs. Mary Orden Ryan, Mrs. Kara Root, Mrs. Grace Yarbrough, Mrs. Mary Baxter, Mrs. L. Quackenbush, Miss Gertrude Gibbs and Mrs. M. E. Myton.

PERMIT DENIED FOR NEW SANITARIUM BY THE VOTE

Vote of Stephenson, Who Is Now Absent, Will Be Deciding Factor

The request of the Automobile Club of Southern California to post signs in Glendale along the San Fernando road through South Glendale, indicating the inland route for motorists, was granted by the city council last night.

The matter of granting a permit to Dr. Agnes E. Hanson to conduct a rest home and milk diet sanitarium at 1136 East Colorado street was held over for another week due to the absence of Councilman Stephenson, whose vote was necessary to decide the matter. The council was deadlocked on the matter, Mayor Robinson and Councilman Lapham voting to deny the request and Councilmen Davis and Kimlin voting in favor.

Councilman Lapham stated he was not in favor of the establishment of any more sanitariums in the city, as patients have escaped from such institutions here frequently and forced the police department to spend considerable time finding them and taking them to the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles county hospital.

After the vote resulted in a deadlock, Dr. Hanson addressed the council and assured them that her sanitarium would not be open to crazy people, neither would it be a hospital for the treatment of contagious diseases, but would be a rest home and milk diet sanitarium for the treatment of nervous people and other similar ailments. Several residents of Colorado street presented a protest. The matter as it stands now rests with Councilman Stephenson and his vote will decide whether or not Glendale will have another sanitarium.

The $25,000 bond for the city treasurer and one for $500 for the city clerk, were accepted. The contract for poles to be used by the public service department was awarded to the Charles McCormick Co., who bid $17.10 per pole, and all other bids were rejected.

GO EAST TO ATTEND FALL CONFERENCE

Elder J. W. Christian, president of the Pacific Union Conference, and Prof. W. W. Ruble and F. E. Painter, educational and field missionary secretaries of the Union, started this week for Minneapolis to attend the Fall conference to be held by the general conference of Seventh-Day Adventists. Delegates from all parts of the United States will be in attendance at this meeting. Plans will be perfected for the general conference in San Francisco next May when missionaries will come from all parts of the world.

The particular matter which calls Prof. Ruble to the Fall council is to lay before the general conference committee a plan to build a Seventh-Day Adventist junior college in Southern California. The delegates voted to do this during the time of the camp meeting at Alhambra last August. San Fernando Academy has so far served the denomination in the southern end of the state, but work has grown so rapidly that a larger school is demanded. A committee has been chosen to secure a location for the school and plan the necessary buildings, which will probably cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

RUTH CONLEY HELD BLAMELESS BY JURY

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 14.—Pretty Ruth Conley, 27, mother of a boy of two, today calmly faced a coroner's jury here that exonerated her of the charge of first-degree murder. Her husband, Walter J. Conley, special guard to Secretary of State Lansing during the war, is dead—shot by his wife, officers say, after Conley had threatened to kill her. Conley was drunk, according to eye witnesses to the tragedy. He muttered threats that he would kill both his wife and boy, they say. Then Mrs. Conley drew a revolver and shot him as he lay in a drunken stupor in their garage. The jury held that she shot her husband while in fear of death at his hands.

CAPT. LOVING NAMED CITY DRILLMASTER

Acting upon the recommendation of City Manager Reeves that the request of Police Chief Martin be granted in the matter of appointing Capt. W. A. Loving to the position of drillmaster and side-arms target instructor for the police force, the city council, at the regular meeting last night, appointed Capt. Loving to the position at a salary of $1 per year.

Capt. Loving, who is a deputy sheriff and special officer in Glendale, asked that he be appointed to this position and stated he would serve without pay. He also stated in his application that his large limousine would be at the disposal of the police department at any time.

The new drillmaster is well qualified for the position to which he has been appointed. He served with the American Army during the World War and it was during this period that he gained the title of captain. He has already had several members of the police department out on the rifle range and demonstrated his ability as an instructor to the satisfaction of the city officials.

ANNUAL DINNER OF CHURCH WORKERS

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Calderwood and a delegation of 35 from Glendale will go tonight to the annual meeting and dinner of the Congregational Church Extension Society at the Hollywood Congregational Church. Reports from all the churches of that denomination in Southern California will be received. The address of the evening will be made by Ray Campbell, pastor of the First Congregational Church of San Diego.

H. E. Cox has gone north to Auberg, California, on a business trip which will keep him away for about two weeks. He is in the employ of the Edison company which has a power plant at Auberg.

CHAMBER DRIVE WAS OVER TOP LAST EVENING

Sanders Makes First Thousand—Now at Work on Second, He Says

Assistant Secretary Sanders of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce went over the top at 5 o'clock last night in securing new members. He had secured 999 members to the chamber at that time.

A day or so ago the Kelly & Van Arsdol Real Estate company told Mr. Sanders that firm wanted to be the 1000th member to the chamber. In other words, they wanted to "top the heap." Mr. Sanders then continued his member getting campaign with renewed energy, and shortly before 5 o'clock he corralled the 999th member. Securing this member automatically made the firm of Kelly & Van Arsdol a member of the organization bringing the enrollment up to 1000, the goal that was set at the beginning of the drive about three months ago.

Just to show Mr. Sanders that he wished him well in his member getting work, which will continue indefinitely, Gus Pulliam, agent for the Oldsmobile, enlisted as the 1000th member. Now that the second thousand has been started Mr. Sanders believes that it is up to him to "clean up another thousand" within the next few months.

Upon being told this morning that his little $6.25 for the first quarter dues was due and payable to the chamber of commerce, Mr. Kelly said:

"We are happy to become a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. This is by far the most valuable organization in Glendale and we gladly take our stand alongside the other boosters of Glendale. If there is anything we can do at any time to help Glendale grow or make this a better city in which to live we would be glad if you would let us know. We want to help make Glendale a better Glendale from every standpoint."

POSTMASTER HERE TO BE NAMED SOON

It is expected that Los Angeles will file a protest to the plan for an independent Glendale postoffice. It seems assured that such protest will be filed by Congressman Lineberger says that he is confident the order will stick.

The Glendale postoffice will be established first as a fourth class office and after the first day will be raised to a class commensurate with the amount of business transacted.

Congressman Lineberger says that he is preparing for the rush of applications for the job of postmaster from this city and that he expects a lively contest. The change from a sub-station to an independent postoffice will be made with as little interruption to the work of the office as possible.

PROBE LIQUOR RING IN THIS SECTION

An inquiry into the allegations that there is or was a booze ring operating in Los Angeles and Glendale was launched yesterday by the county grand jury. This was brought about by a raid made a few weeks ago in Glendale and vicinity in which Guy Wells, Ernest Thede, William Kinney and Charles Wilson were arrested. Several others were later held for investigation. Several Los Angeles policemen have been arrested in connection with the ring and other arrests are expected after the grand jury has completed its probe.

AMBROSINI SECURES PERMIT FOR OFFICE

A. Ambrosini of the Ambrosini Hotel Co. last night requested the council to grant a permit for a temporary shed and office on the site of the hotel that is to be built by that company. The permit was granted on motion of Councilman Davis, who stipulated that a time limit be set at 60 days. If, at that time, the hotel is actually under construction and there is further need for the temporary building, the permit will be renewed, Davis explained.

Building Superintendent Marek requested that the city purchase another machine for the use of the building inspector and the machine now used by that official be turned over to the city forestry department, as that department is in need of an automobile. The request was granted and the purchase of a small automobile was ordered.

FORGIVING THE DEBTS

Ambassador Ricci of Italy scouts as impossible the plan, or suggestion, that the United States erase the debts owed by Europe, leaving the slate clean. He says that such a solution would be so greatly to the advantage of European interests that the political leader to support it would suppress himself and his party.

One proposal that the debts be forgiven may be said to rest on a logical basis, although likely to remain pure theory. This is that in payment for the favor Europe consent to disarm. There is not the remotest prospect that such payment could be pledged. However, disarmament, if made general, would be as much to the advantage of Europe as of the United States. This country, then, would be seen in the position of bribing Europe to do Europe a favor. It cannot be called upon to take such a course.

Were Europe utterly crushed and broken, forced to start over from the beginning, the matter would present an aspect wholly different. But Europe, with some delay, some halting in the march, is treading the path of progress. It is designing business expansion. It is entering upon a career of development. It is seeking world markets. In these its various powers will be in direct competition with the United States.

The United States has its own problems. It can afford to be generous, but there is no call upon it to be profligate. It may be just, but without bestowal of alms. There appears no ground for it to relinquish money legitimately due, when the money would thus become the capital of its competitors.

Doubtless this country will be lenient. There is no sign of purpose to work hardship upon friends. They will be granted time and fair conditions and doubtless that is all they expect or ask.

PROBATION ONCE MORE

Just at a time when the merits of the probation system are being discussed, an interesting item appears in the news. It seems to have direct bearing on the subject.

A man convicted of a confidence game has asked for probation. This request must be construed as his admission that the verdict was correct. By deliberate fraud he had cheated a couple out of $15,000 they could not afford to lose.

Facility in lying is part of the equipment of the bunko operator. His whole life, so far as the public is permitted to perceive it, is the acting of falsehood. This weakens confidence in his word even when given openly to the court. A request for probation involves the promise of reform.

Not long ago another member of the bunko class was convicted. It was necessary to send back to New York for him. He expended thousands of dollars in the effort to escape penalty. The county also expended thousands of dollars. The man was found guilty on the simple showing of facts, and was sentenced to the penitentiary. Probably he knew that to seek for probation would be futile. The course chosen by him was appeal.

Since shortly after the trial he has been out on bail, still believed to be active in the underworld. Among his ambitions is that of discrediting the district attorney who interfered with his career, and who, though failing to put him in stripes, indicated frankly a willingness to put him in stripes.

The trouble and expense of convicting a guilty bunko man seems of doubtful worth unless the conviction carries penalty and restraint.

When two of the crafty craft have been caught, it does not appear reasonable that nothing should come of it.

AGGRESSIVE POLICIES

Recently the statement was made that the Japanese demand for race equality was a subterfuge. The allegation of the correspondent was that the demand had been formulated merely as a disguise of the real objective.

Nobody familiar with the Japanese character accepted the view of the correspondent. It was rejected because manifestly an error. The Japanese do seek racial equality, and seem to think that to win this point would win them much else. They believe it would give them rights in the United States, such as no other set of aliens dreams of asking.

Now comes news of the formation of an Asiatic league "to combat the aggressive policy of the white race." Thus with a spit and a yowl the cat leaps out of the bag.

It is not known that the white race has aggressive policies in any measure pertaining to the welfare of Japan. There is an actual compact between England and Japan. The United States is far from proposing aggression. It may set forth that the Pacific ocean, a large body of water, is not the exclusive property of Japan.

Japan is the nation with a distinctly aggressive program. It holds Korea without the consent of the Koreans. It clings to Shantung against the protest of the Chinese. It has designs upon Siberia. There is authority for saying that it has an eye on India.

To place an obstacle in the way of the onward sweep of the aggressor, could not in fairness be construed either as aggression or as sympathy with such method of advancing selfish interests.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

"Many have the idea that with hanging, murder decreases. It does not. It increases."

So, with his customary confidence, states Arthur Brisbane. It would be interesting to know where he gets his information. It appears to belong to him exclusively.

When a man commits murder, and escapes the capital penalty, he may, and often does, commit more murders. The instant he has been hanged his potentiality as an assassin is at an end. The fact will have to be conceded even by the Brisbanes.

England has capital punishment, and England is almost free from murder. In a large American city there will be more murders in a month than in the United Kingdom in a year. Naturally there must be an explanation of this, and the explanation is simple. It all lies in the fact that in England murder is punished as a crime, and in the United States it is not punished.

In one year the total of murders in London was thirteen. Of the guilty, eleven were executed and two escaped the law by suicide.

An American city approximating a population of a million that did not pile up a larger total of murders in a month than London's record for a year, would be likely to regard itself with complacent satisfaction.

In this country, despite the belief that "murder will out" there are countless unexplained crimes of this nature. When a murderer is caught "red-handed" as the saying is, the protection of the law is thrown about him. A fair, quick trial, leading to just verdict is next to impossible. Criminal lawyers have so entrenched themselves, that they will not have it otherwise.

Generally speaking, there is no such thing as life imprisonment in this country. The sentence to life imprisonment is taken gladly by the man who knows himself to deserve hanging. If life imprisonment were a reality, it would be a deterrent.

Before condemning capital punishment as ineffective, it would be fair to give the matter a test.

Before deciding that life imprisonment would do as much to discourage wanton homicide, it might be well to institute an actual and not a largely fictitious term of life imprisonment.

An actress who has brought suit for divorce explains it by saying she "can't stand the same people or surroundings long." Such gentlemen as may be on her waiting list would be wise to ponder these sentiments, and wiser yet to hop off the list.

FUR FARMS

By Dr. Frank Crane.

According to a recent article by Dr. E. H. Chapman of Ottawa the business of raising fur-bearing animals is of considerable importance in Canada, there being over 400 farms in the Dominion wholly or chiefly devoted to that industry.

Of his interesting statistics the following items will be of interest to our readers.

Wild animals have been raised for the sake of their pelts as far back as 1880 in Prince Edward Island, but the industry did not make much progress until the Canadian government in 1914 published the results of an official inquiry into the possibilities of fur farming.

This publication attracted so many to fur farming that it has now become an important Dominion industry.

The value of the land and buildings of fur farms in Canada is put at about $720,000, and the animals themselves are estimated as worth some $2,560,000.

Once the investment paid enormously, sometimes 1000 per cent. While there are no such profits now, a good, steady business is being done.

The following details as to fox fur are of interest:

The fox has proved the most suitable of the fur-bearing animals for breeding in captivity. This is well shown by the fact that out of 430 fur farms no fewer than 423 were fox farms. The remaining five were made up of three mink farms in Nova Scotia and two raccoon farms in Quebec. The skunk and the Karacule sheep have been tried without success.

The last available figures show that of the 8000 fur-bearing animals kept in captivity on the fur farms of Canada, 7000 were silver black foxes, 850 were patch foxes, and nearly 300 were red foxes. There were also one blue fox, one gray fox, nearly 100 mink, and ten raccoons.

In one year there are something like 5000 silver black foxes, 500 patch foxes, and 200 red foxes born on the fur farms, while the number of animals killed amounts, roughly, to 2000 silver black foxes, 300 patch foxes and 100 red foxes.

The average value of a live silver black fox on a Canadian fur farm varies from province to province, as does also the value of the pelt. For the Dominion the average value of the live animal is $85, and the average value of its pelt is $50.

The highest values, both for the live silver black fox and for its pelt, are obtained in Quebec, where well over $100 has been paid for a single animal, and where the average price obtained for a silver black fox pelt is $70.

In Prince Edward Island, where three-quarters of all the captive silver black foxes in the Dominion are to be found, the average value of the live animal is $70. Its pelt is worth on the average about $45.

The success in raising the silver black fox in captivity must have proved bad for the old-time trapper, who could always count on $200 for a silver black fox pelt.

The fur farmer has improved the fur of his domesticated fox so considerably that the trapper can hardly compete with him.

THE LISTENING POST

The Boss was watching the work.
And observed one man who was working with fine spirit.
And great effectiveness.
And he said: "I must tell that man I appreciate his work."

But something else intervened.
The Boss had a lot of things on his mind.
Like many of us, his intentions were good, but his performances not always equal to his intentions.

Which is not at all to be complained about.
Only humanly natural.
Because with most of us, our performances fall short of our intentions.
Or resolutions.

So the Boss did what was only a natural thing.
But the next day the worker slowed up a little.
He was human, too.
And he said: "The other men are taking it easy.
"They are not working their heads off."

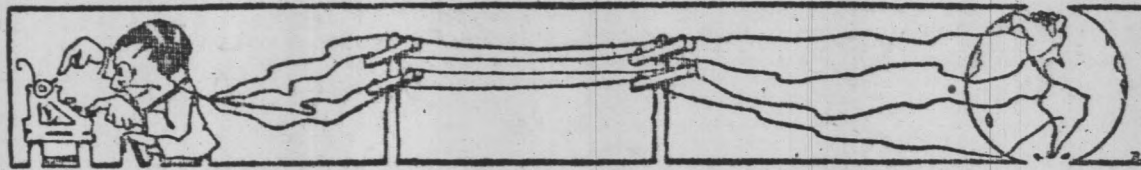

So the slowing up resulted in a little less output.
And the Boss was the loser.
And the man as well.
Because it is bad for a man to be in a slowing-up frame of mind.

It is the speeding-up frame of mind that is valuable.
That makes for usefulness and happiness.
We do not mean the actual, physical speed.
Like racing through the streets with a motor at fifty miles an hour.

We mean the resolve to do a little better today than we did yesterday.
A little better tomorrow than we do today.
That is the proper method of speeding.
The other is the same foolishness that animates the bug that buzzes into the light.

He makes a lot of motions without getting anywhere in particular.
Except to the bug undertaker.
Just as the speeding motorist gets eventually to the coroner's office.
And often, unfortunately, takes some innocent pedestrian with him.

And there are many men working in the world.
And the people as a mass constitute the Boss.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Soldier's Dream—By Thomas Campbell (1777-1844)

Our bugles sang truce for the night-cloud had lowered,
And the sentinel stars set their watch in the sky;
And thousands had sunk on the ground, overpowered,
The weary to sleep and the wounded to die.

When reposing that night on my pallet of straw
By the wolf-scaring faggot that guarded the slain,
At the dead of the night a sweet Vision I saw;
And thrice ere the morning I dreamt it again.

Methought from the battlefield's dreadful array,
Far, far I had roamed on a desolate track:
'Twas Autumn—and sunshine arose on the way
To the home of my fathers, that welcomed me back.

I flew to the pleasant fields traversed so oft
In life's morning march, when my bosom was young;
I heard my own mountain goats bleating aloft,
And knew the sweet strain that the corn-reapers sung.

Then pledged we the wine-cup, and fondly I swore
From my house and my weeping friends never to part;
My little ones kissed me a thousand-times o'er,
And my wife sobbed aloud in her fullness of heart.

"Stay, stay with us!—rest!—thou art weary and worn!"
And I was their war-broken soldier to stay—
But sorrow returned with the dawning of morn,
And the voice in my dreaming ear melted away.

Fencing is to be revived, it is said. But everybody knows it is revived each time a congressman visits the old home.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

STARVING A PROPHET

[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

The death of Ivan Pavlov, the Russian scientist, is an indictment of the system that has killed him.

He died of starvation. Yet to this man more than to almost any other humanity is lastingly indebted for our present state of knowledge regarding the processes of digestion.

His lectures on the digestive glands, translated into German, French, and English, won the supreme distinction of the Nobel prize. He was founder of a new school of physiology, and pioneer in epochal researches.

Yet bolshevism, while its ruffianly commissars swilled vodka and champagne, contemptuously dismissed the plea of the old man, gray in the service of science, for a little bread to eat.

In his acute misery he wrote to a friend at Kiev that, whereas, he once had made laboratory work his first ambition, now he would be so happy to peel a few potatoes. The friend procured food for him from the Kiev Medical society, but it came too late. He died in a hospital of the combined effects of hunger and cold.

This man was one of those "destitute, afflicted, tormented, of whom the world was not worthy." It is a ghastly irony that he whose researches have enabled countless human beings to make the best use of their food, should be rewarded, in the inverted scale of values that bolshevism establishes, by starvation.

Yet this is the system which some parlor apologists in America applaud and invite us to accept. They have plenty to eat.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

Mention has been made of the suggestion of a divorce judge in relation to hasty marriages. He would have would have marriages of this class inhibited. His plan was to make a law making a publication of intent a necessary preliminary to the procuring of a marriage license. Perhaps it would be wise to make the restriction even more drastic by requiring the parties to the prospective compact to show themselves fit for the obligation, and serious in entering upon it. There is before the courts of this county now, on a criminal charge, a man who admits having been divorced seven or eight times. To permit him to contract any of the later of his marriages was to make a travesty of a really respectable and useful ceremony. Another man has just been divorced the third time, each of his wives having been young and beautiful and silly. Doubtless he will find a fourth of similar character. Even a foolish female is entitled to protection. The man in this case is unqualified to be a husband. The laws that permit him to assume obligations he can't fill or has no desire to fill, need to be changed.

The nerve of George Rath of the American league has excited more admiration even than his unequalled batting record. The series opened with the big fellow physically unfit to play. Nevertheless he played when a man of less determination would have been groaning in bed. He knew that his presence on the field would help his comrades. When he had to quit, there were some who jeered him. He was deeply hurt. Especially did he resent the attitude of one sports writer whose comment was insulting. There will be general hope that Rath's sore arm will get well before his anger has quite cooled, and that then he may meet the writer in question.

Among the suggestions of the railroad commission is that the schedule between Pasadena and Los Angeles be lengthened in order to permit trains to keep up with it. Probably there are few suburban lines for which less speed would be recommended as an improvement. Probably also there are few regular patrons who would regard less speed as an improvement, anyhow.

Police judges are coming to the conclusion that a jail sentence is the only cure for the speeder. The reaching of this conclusion was inevitable. People have wondered why the judges were so slow about it. Perhaps so that nobody could accuse the courts of speeding. The jail penalty is not only effective, but it has the merit of being fair. The $25 fine meant nothing to the rich-offender, but imprisonment was the alternative for the poor.

Efforts are being made to procure separate trials for a man and woman jointly charged with murder. The interest of the public in the matter is to see that the truth shall be brought out, and justice be permitted to triumph. The advantage to the woman in having a separate trial is plain enough. California courts are reluctant to convict a woman of murder even though her guilt is manifest. There is hardly a precedent for it. When the woman is young and beautiful the chances are that she will kiss the jury a glad goodbye and go forth blithe and free. If closely linked with a mere male in perpetration of a crime, her outlook would be less rosy.

While Los Angeles police were engaged in righteous raiding of a resort supposed to harbor vice, some unregenerate outsider stole the auto in which they had arrived at the scene. Perhaps he was seeking to impress upon them the wisdom of letting the penny ante game flourish for a time so that the police might be employed to make the streets safe for passage.

In one of its raids on a hotel the police of the same city found an official locked in a room with a woman. He had gone there, it appears, in order to bring about this precise situation, so that the woman might be checked in her evil ways. Still, when the police broke in, had they played no favorites, they would have taken the pair.

The Deaver mailman who destroyed 10,000 letters to save himself the trouble of delivering them introduces a novel feat of crime. Doubtless there are many letters posted that lack intrinsic value. Whether or not they are worth delivering is a matter not properly to be determined by the man paid to deliver them. Doubt naturally arises as to the truth of the man's story. Far more probable that he went through the letters before he burned them.

IMPROVEMENT WORK CONTRACTS GIVEN OUT BY COUNCIL

Bids were opened last night by the city council for the improvement work on Maple street from Central avenue to Columbus avenue, and the contract was awarded to Cornwell & Henderson. Ducey & Britten were the successful bidders for the contract to do the improvement work on Milford street from Brand boulevard to Central avenue.

On motion of Councilman Kimlin, council voted to appropriate $500 for the Welfare Bureau to assist that organization in carrying on its work in Glendale. The bid of Clinton L. Booth for automobile insurance was declared low and all other bids were rejected.

On motion of Councilman Lapham it was voted to rescind the contract with the San Francisco Steel Products Co., as that company has failed to fulfill the terms.

HOUSING OFFICIAL VIEWS PROPERTY

A communication from a representative of the State Housing Commission, who visited Glendale yesterday at the solicitation of Building Superintendent Marek, was read to the council last night in regard to the alleged violation of certain building laws at 311 South Central avenue.

According to Mr. Marek the house is too close to the property line. The building inspector told the owner of the property that the house would have to be moved farther from the property line and that the owner refused to comply therewith. The letter from the State Housing Commission recommends that the city council refer the matter to the building inspector with instructions to act according to the law governing such cases.

It is hoped that all members will attend and bring others desirous of joining. The dues of $1, payable semi-annually, will be received at that time. There will be a business session at which work for the coming year will be planned and at which little Helen Sternberg, president of the auxiliary, will preside.

The musical program will be impromptu and musical games will be played.

LA CRESCENTA CLUB FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the La Crescenta Women's Club was held at the school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, President Mrs. F. H. Anderson presiding. After the business meeting the question of joining the club, followed by an open discussion. A vote on the question will be taken at the next meeting. The club voted a fruit and jelly shower for the Monte Vista Lodge, the club having furnished a room at the Lodge. There were eight new members voted into the club. A musical program was artistically given by pupils of the University of Southern California, among them Misses Edith Knox, Evangeline Reese, R. D. Lavelle and Mrs. C. Moleby. The tenor concluded the afternoon when Mrs. Charles Waste and Mrs. Robert Wildhack were joint hostesses.

CATHERINE FERRY HONOREE AT PARTY

Catherine Ferry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Ferry of East Acacia avenue, was the honoree at a party given by her mother Wednesday afternoon in celebration of her eighteenth birthday, at which about 35 boys and girls were entertained.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out in floral decorations and appointments of the refreshment tables, little kewpies being much in evidence.

Games were played, and a grab bag was provided from which each guest drew a gift. The guest of honor was the recipient of many pretty presents and the affair, provided a royal good time for all who participated.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH LADIES HAVE PARTY

The Central Christian church has been doing the pivot act this week and has turned its back on the public. It has not, however, closed its doors to the women's organizations of the church, and yesterday, which was their regular all-day meeting, a birthday dinner was given for Mrs. Eva Hutton, teacher of the Women's Bible class, and for Mrs. Stem.

It was also the wedding anniversary of Mrs. Creel, who was present with two sisters as her guests, one from Los Angeles and the other from Honolulu. A toast to the honorees was made by Mrs. J. H. Daugherty, and quite a ceremony was made of cutting the big birthday cake which centered the table and which was oblong. At one end were candles which formed the letter H and at the other end the letter S, for the two birthday celebrants.

SEMI-MONTHLY AT MRS. SMITH'S

The Semi-Monthly Club was entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. Smith on South Glendale avenue. What was the diversion, Miss Ruprecht winning the prize.

Luncheon was served and Mrs. Neilson, a former member, was a guest.

MRS. MACINTYRE HOSTESS AT BRIDGE

King of the second. The guest list included Mrs. C. D.

Miller, Mrs. Chas. Meadows, Mrs. C. H. Pendleton, Mrs. G. B. Pratt, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. Frank George, Mrs. E. L. Walker, Mrs. Helen Campbell, Miss Annie MacIntyre, Mrs. A. H. Yesterday was Guest Day at St. Mark's Guild, when each member was privileged to bring a guest. Mrs. Holbrook and Mrs. Squires acted as hostesses in the serving of afternoon tea.

Twenty-one ladies were present and plans were made for the November which the Guild will hold in November. It will specialize on aprons and rugs.

DANCING PARTY AT LA CRESCENTA

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kelfer of La Crescenta were hosts to a charming group of young folks at a dancing party last night at their home on Sycamore avenue, for their daughters, the Misses Dorothy and Virginia Kelfer. Among the guests were Misses Jeanette Culbertson, Jessie Coulin and Elizabeth Jones; Messrs. Donald and Robert Hendrix, Verne Rose, Francis Foy and Fred Hendrix, from Houston, Texas.

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR KATHLEEN CAMPBELL

In celebration of the 16th birthday of her daughter Kathleen, Mrs. Daniel Campbell entertained at dinner Tuesday evening Miss Esther Black and Miss Virginia Huntley. Yesterday, as a further celebration, she was hostess at a matinee party which enjoyed "Happiness," now on the boards at the Morocco. It is a sweet little Irish play which includes considerable Irish music, and in which Mrs. Fannie Stockbridge of this city has a leading role.

The party included the wife of Dr. Campbell of Los Angeles, the sister of the hostess, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Elizabeth and Margaret Campbell, Mrs. Matthew Campbell, Esther Black, Virginia Huntley, Kathleen Campbell and the hostess.

ALL-DAY MEETING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The all-day meeting of the Baptist Women's Union was held Thursday at the church. Sewing occupied the morning and at noon a fine luncheon was served to about 60 members and guests at tables beautifully decorated with bowls of cosmos.

Following the luncheon a business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. E. E. Ford, followed by an interesting program in charge of Mrs. J. Roger Bentley.

"The Binding and Loosening of the Nation" was the title of a pageant arranged by Mrs. Bentley, which depicted how Christianity and its workers, Education, Evangelism, Economics and Hygiene, overcome sin and the dangers that follow in its wake—poverty, disease and moral darkness. Mrs. Bentley afterwards gave a fine review of the study book, "The Kingdom of the Nation," and Mrs. Ray Bentley and Mrs. Park Arnold sang in duet, "Watchman, Tell Us of the Night."

PRETTY LUNCHEON BY MISS MARY FOY

Miss Mary Foy of Pasadena, well known in club and political circles, entertained yesterday with a Dollie Madison luncheon at Hotel Maryland, 60 women of Los Angeles, Pasadena, and surrounding towns, assisted hostesses being Mrs. Mattison Jones of this city, Mrs. S. Wiley of Whittier, Miss Anita Patton of San Marino, Mrs. John B. Elliott of Alhambra, Mrs. John Brandenberg, Mrs. S. W. Shelley, and Mrs. Nelson Nevius, the three last named being from Pasadena.

Each of the ladies mentioned was a hostess at a large table, centered with yellow chrysanthemums.

The guest list included women of distinction, one notable being Mrs. Ida McGlone Gibson, press representative at the peace table at Versailles who attended all the public sessions. She is the author of several novels, one of the best known being "Revelations of a Wife."

Seymour Thomas, the artist whose portrait of President Wilson was selected as the official picture for the campaign, was one of the speakers at the luncheon. He declared that when a subject bares himself to an artist he bares his soul as well as his body and if there is any streak of yellow in him, it is certain to be revealed. In his intimate relations with ex-President Wilson he discovered that egotism though he was charmed with being, he thought of everyone else before he thought of himself. When he was shown the first sketch of the portrait Mr. Thomas made, he said: "I like the picture, and I would like to look like it."

The program proved highly interesting. The luncheon was one of a series which Miss Foy is giving to cement organization among Democratic women voters.

One of the most striking features was a series of letters written by the young daughter of Cyrus D. Field (who laid the Atlantic cable). Though so young, she was a member of the circle close to the administration, and in her letters told many interesting things about Dollie Madison and the doings at the White House, also the rumors of war in which Henry Clay was accused of being a rattle-brained alarmist.

Miss Foy spoke of the importance to the democratic party of maintaining organization and interest and named McAdoo, Cummins and Cox as possible candidates at the next presidential election. Letters from all three which had been read at the dinner of the Men's Democratic League last Saturday night, were read by Mrs. Gibson.

The program closed with several accordion solos played by a young girl costumed in the mode of Dollie Madison's time when the accordion was a popular instrument.

MERE MILLION IS NOTHING TO ROBERT

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—A million dollars, more or less, does not mean much in the active life of George A. Robert of Omaha, who is said to have dropped that amount in the last few months on the grain market. An loss he has sustained, however, is more than balanced by the profits he made in the heavy bull markets of 1919 and 1920. In the spring of 1919 he cleaned up more than $2,000,000 on corn and in 1920 more than $1,000,000 on rye. It is said he has made between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in grain in the last two years. Reports of his recent losses come from Omaha. Traders here are doubtful regarding the amount of his losses. "There are operators here, however, who would not be surprised to learn that the amount is more than a million."

CHILD WINS LARGE VERDICT IN DAMAGES

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Thirty thousand for each lost hand—a total verdict of $60,000—was awarded today to little Rose Cattini, 8 years old, whose hands were cut off more than a year ago when a truck of the American Railway Express company ran across her wrists. Rose was playing on the sidewalk in front of 469 West Forty-ninth street with her 5-year-old cousin, "making mud pies," as she told the jury, when the heavy truck crossed the curb, catching her hands beneath its wheels. Suit was brought against the express company for $100,000.

WHITE ASKS CITY TO INSTITUTE HEARS RETURN HIS DEED A FINE ADDRESS

Harry E. White appeared before the council last night and asked that the deed to certain property at the intersection of Brand boulevard and San Fernando road, that he had given to the city be returned to him. White said that he had given the deed with the understanding that certain improvements were to be made at the intersection of these two streets and in order to speed up the improvement work.

According to Mr. White the city agreed to start work on the improvement at once and charged that the only work done to date is the removal of some trees. He asked for deed he said because he wants to do the improvement work in front of his own property himself.

The council told Mr. White that proceedings for the work had already been started and were in favor of denying his request. Councilman Kimlin stated that the telephone company had been notified to remove certain poles that interfere with proposed improvement and that the councilmen were under the impression that the poles had been removed. Mr. White stated that if the council would return his deed he would enter into an agreement that would be satisfactory to the city regarding his property at the time work actually started. Action was deferred.

JAPANESE CAUGHT ON VENTURA COAST

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 14.—Finding a string of skulls belonging to the Oxnard beet sugar factory adrift or beached near Point Hueneme, has led to an investigation by Sheriff McGilchey of Ventura county, and Sheriff James Ross of this county, under the belief that a large consignment of liquor has been landed along the Ventura coast. Tuesday night the skulls were cut from their mooring at the Hueneme wharf. About the same time farmers reported seeing flashes out on the channel. Last night three armed guards, placed by the sugar factory management at the wharf, surprised nine Japanese. Repeated flashes had been seen in the channel just before this. The surmise is that the Japanese were after more boats to row into the channel and take on another cargo of liquor, probably smuggled in from Mexico.

At the afternoon session of the Teachers' Institute Thursday at the high school, addresses were made by Deputy County Superintendent Durfee and by Stanley D. Wilson, a member of the State board of education.

Mr. Durfee spoke of California as a clearing house for the best teaching talent in the United States. "We talk," said he, "of the Applan Way and the pyramids as great monuments of the past; but I think these representatives of the Anglo-Saxon race who have gathered in this corner of the world are building monuments, not under the lash of a conqueror but as willing service monuments which will be transmitted to their children and prove a greater heritage than ever before came to man. If I had the power to choose the moment out of all eons in which the world rode under the sun, I would choose the present, and if I were given a choice of all the places on the planet in which I would want to live and give my children the opportunity of living, I would choose this region in which we are today."

Mr. Wilson dwelt on the great responsibilities resting upon teachers and their great opportunities in moulding future generations. He declared he had no use for the teacher who was merely seeking a job. He deprecated the economic waste of war and the small percentage of the taxes paid by the people of the United States that are spent on education as compared with military defense. He also declared he had discovered that patriotism is the synonym of service.

IDLE MEXICANS IN JEROME GO TO WORK

JEROME, Ariz., Oct. 14.—Jerome has about 400 idle Mexicans who, on the approach of winter, are about to have demonstration of the difficulty that will be experienced in trying to get along without employment. They have been getting relief through the Salvation Army for much of the time since the mines closed. A short time ago they were listed for work in the cotton fields of the Salt River Valley. Of the 400 who agreed to go only 30 appeared at the time set for assembling. The Salvation Army has cut the others off the charity list and there is expectation that the mild winter climate of Southern Arizona soon will have attraction for the Jerome unemployed.

CHILDREN REARED IN A HOME WITHOUT MUSIC HAVE MISSED, OH!

so much of the really worthwhile things of this life! While, on the other hand, a child reared in a home wherein there is an Ampico, will grow up with an appreciation of the beautiful and best, for no one can live, day after day, in close communion with such masters as Leopold Godowsky, Leo Ornstein, Fritz Kreisler, and hundreds of others, without coming to have a deeper understanding and higher ideals! And, in the study of music, you'll find an Ampico of inestimable value to your child, for there is always before him, yet always a little beyond, the ideal of perfection, and he will always strive to attain that degree of excellence which characterizes his favorite master! At the BARNES-SHUCK MUSIC CO., 211 North Brand Blvd., you may hear the Ampico in the Knabe piano, in either the upright or baby grand! After once hearing the exquisite touch of the artists you'll never rest until you, too, have an Ampico in your own home, where, upon the mere pressure of a button, you may hear your favorite selection played with all the feeling and beauty requisite!

HARRY MOORE, 304 East Broadway, says, "If you are planning a new home, make sure that Kyanize Spar is the varnish used on all exposed woodwork—for it will protect the wood against decay and discoloration from the weather." And the same rule applies to your old home, if you would "do" it over have it new, and fresh-looking, restore to the woodwork its original lustre and finish—and permanently, too! Kyanize Spar will stand up under all conditions—it will not crack, check, peel, or turn white! Salt or fresh water, heat or cold, sun, wind or any climatic condition is powerless to make it rotten! The worst storms cannot effect it, the cold of the Polar regions or the heat of the Tropics, will not injure Kyanize Spar finish! At any hardware store you can get Kyanize Spar, a former member, was a guest.

HOW FREQUENTLY THE HOUSE-
WIFE dreads the coming of wash day! How often a vision of last week's struggle appears, and with it the memory of the aches and pains and worn-out feeling before the task was half done! Such experiences are unknown in the many homes which
WASHER WILSON, 140 South Brand
Blvd., has visited—for all "electric housewives" know that their "electric servants" accomplish in an hour or so what previously required half a day of hand washing and wringing
the old-fashioned way! It is no longer necessary for you to toil on wash-

the laundress will finally appear, or fuss and fret over articles lost in the laundry! Washer Wilson has an elecwashday problems—just the machine to meet your individual requirements, exactly, and give you "clean clothes the better way." You may have your

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1921

TO ERECT NINETEEN NEW HOUSES IN GOOD SECTION

J. B. Doner to Open a New Tract for Construction of Modern Homes

Ground was broken yesterday for the first of a series of 19 houses to be erected on the hitherto undeveloped tract between Doran and Milton and Concord and State streets. This tract has been owned by J. B. Doner of the real estate firm of Doner, Hemenway & Burn, for a long time. Mr. Doner has decided that in view of the house shortage in Glendale the erection of four and five room homes on the property will be of vast benefit to the city. The Hirth Construction Company is the contracting firm in charge of building these houses.

The first house will be completed in about 35 days and it is the plan of Mr. Doner to have a house completed every seven days until the entire 19 are finished. The houses are to be erected at a cost ranging between $3500 and $4500 and will be placed on the market as soon as completed.

Each house is to be modern in every respect with oak floors throughout and a private garage for every house. Street improvements will be put in as soon as water pipes have been laid and they will be put in as soon as they arrive. Lights are already on the tract, the water is piped up to the edge of the property and will be extended throughout the tract. The gas company has assured Mr. Doner that service will be piped to the property as fast as residents move in.

One of the three houses to be built first has been sold and another is being considered. The erection of these houses will tend to stimulate home building in other sections of the city it is believed.

GARLIC EATERS ON HOMEWARD WAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The nation's breath is becoming weaker and prohibition is not to blame. Garlic is rapidly losing out as one of the great American smells. Return of thousands of foreign-born garlic eaters to their original homes at the close of the war has caused America's garlic imports to drop from 10,000,000 to 7,000,000 pounds a year. Department of Commerce figures showed recently. But 7,000,000 pounds is a lot of garlic.

If everybody could do just what he wished to do, who'd do the work?

MAY FIGURE IN DIVORCE

Mr. and Mrs.
Harold F. McCormick

According to reports from Chicago, Harold F. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company, and Mrs. Edith McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, are contemplating divorce proceedings. It was intimated that they will hereafter live widely-separated lives, and there were reports that a divorce is more than a mere possibility.

GLENDALE PIONEER MARRIED 40 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Goode, former residents of Glendale, well-known throughout the valley, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at their home in Culver City last night. A pleasing feature of the event was the surprise shower given by their children, who are residents of Glendale. These included Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Goode, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Goode, Mrs. Pearl Livingston and Jack Goode.

Mr. Goode will be remembered by oldtimers as the Glendale booster who brought the Pacific Electric to this city. He secured the right of way for the road up Brand boulevard, which consisted at that time of orange groves and vineyards. He was a man with a vision and his vision at that time seemed foolish to the average resident of the valley. It is doubtful if even he thought he was putting through an improvement that would prove to be such a factor in the upbuilding of Glendale.

We've always had a "hunch" that the professional sunshine scatterer doesn't scatter much of it at home.

'MULESHOE' DRINK HAS BIG WALLOP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—An investigation by police officers has revealed the existence of a new drink in this vicinity—a drink with such a terrible "kick" and more terrific effects, that it has been given the name of "Muleshoe."

For several weeks men have been picked up in the old saloon district suffering with distress. At the receiving hospital they were treated for alcoholic poisoning, swollen throats and in a few cases blindness. All of the men treated declared they had drunk nothing but what they believed was sweet cider.

The police investigators found certain soft drink vendors have been buying in considerable quantities a heating substance containing wood alcohol, grease and an unknown chemical to keep it from burning too rapidly. The substance was designed to heat chafing dishes, but the unscrupulous cider men have been mixing it, the police say, with the cider.

"I thought I had swallowed liquid fire," said one poor fellow after the doctors had worked with him several hours and brought him past the danger zone.

The police believe they have a line on all of the vendors who used "Muleshoe" and expect to prevent its use in the future.

POSTOFFICE PLANS TO BRING RAILROAD SERVICE HERE

Chamber of Commerce Sees Double Transit Service
in New Triumph

The announcement that Glendale is to have an independent postoffice was hailed with joy by J. M. Rhoades and other officials of the chamber of commerce and the city. Aside from giving the city a postoffice independent of Los Angeles, there are other benefits that Glendale will receive and several problems that the chamber of commerce has been faced with recently will be solved.

According to Mr. Rhoades, one of the big problems aside from the post-office question has been the matter of having the Southern Pacific trains stop here. In the past, all trains have gone through Glendale without stopping and it was necessary for a passenger to Glendale to pass on through the city to Los Angeles and then take the interurban line out here. With an independent postoffice, trains will have to stop here to take on and discharge mail, at the same time enabling passengers routed to Glendale to get off here and reduce traveling time by one hour.

When the postal service is changed the mail service will be temporarily congested. It is thought that the congestion will be eliminated within three or four days after the change takes place and the benefit of having an independent postoffice will more than compensate for the congestion experienced during the period of reorganization.

MOVIES SCORED BY UNIVERSITY HEAD

HONOLULU, Oct. 14.—The people of Hawaii may be located some two thousand miles from the center of the moving-picture industry, but they are for the most part ardent supporters of "canned drama" in its higher forms.

This fact has been brought to light as the result of a controversy for which Professor Maud Babcock, head of the department of public speaking of the University of Utah, is largely responsible. Speaking before the Honolulu Ad Club recently, Miss Babcock denounced the "movie" in no uncertain terms, saying in effect that it had neither educational nor recreative value, but acted merely as a form of intoxication. Her speech has brought forth a storm of adverse comment in the Honolulu press, which indicates that the public is strongly in favor of the silent drama.

Now comes Professor Vaughan MacCaughey, Superintendent of Public Instruction of the Territory, and says that he believes moving pictures to be increasing in value as an aid to education and that he "looks forward to the time when every large public school in Hawaii will be equipped with moving picture outfits." It now remains for Professor Babcock to score the "last word."

ROCK PILE MADE IN CITY FOR HOBOES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—A great barrier will soon be spread around Southern California by public and railroad officials to check the influx of hobo, box-car itinerants, wanderers, with radical inclinations and criminals.

The unusual steps to be taken by the officials will be formulated at an early conference to be called by Chief of Police Charles A. Jones, of Los Angeles.

Representatives of the District Attorney's office, railroad special agents police, and public officials of cities and towns throughout Southern California and agents of the government, will be requested by Chief Jones to gather and outline a plan to halt a flow of idlers reported en route to this section.

According to Jones, the migration of hobo and other undesirables has started unusually early, and from reports received by the police executive an unprecedented situation will confront peace officers this fall.

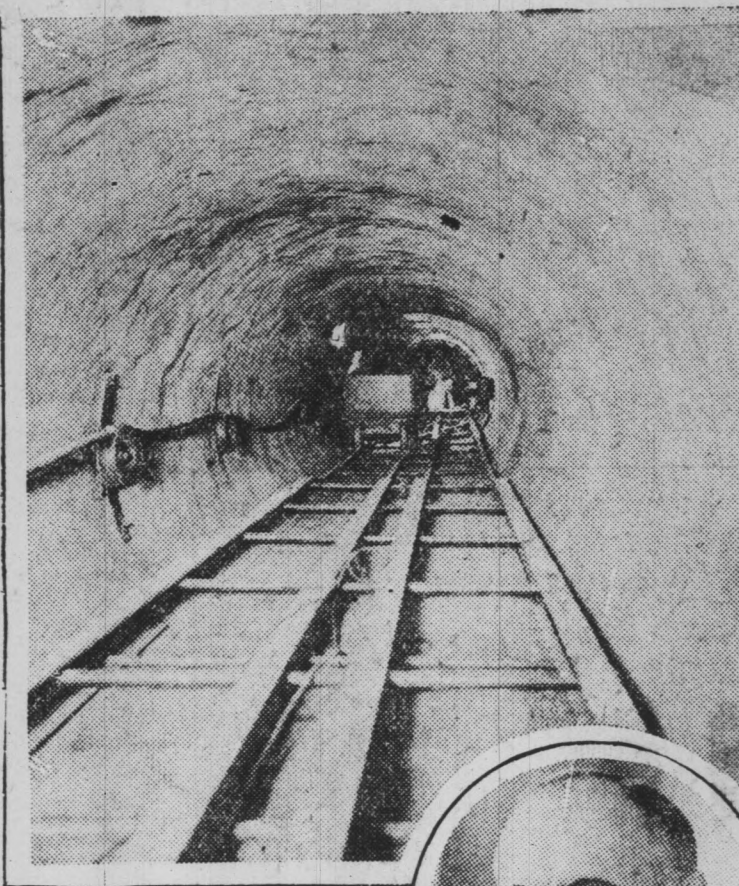

"To check the migration at once and spread word that Southern California is a poor place for undesirables to stop for the winter," said Jones, "I shall urge that rock-piles be instituted in every Southern California town and city and seek the co-operation of every official to make this section the turning-back point for wanderers."

JACK RABBITS GET NEWEST DISEASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Ever heard of Tularemia? No, not a French pastry, but a new disease recently discovered by the United States Public Health Service. It isn't as bad as it sounds, seldom resulting fatally to man. It is a disabling septic fever, and is transmitted to man, according to the health service, by a roundabout manner. It originates among jack rabbits and is transmitted to man and other rabbits by a blood-sucking horsefly, which obtains it by biting the rabbit and passes it on by biting the man or another rabbit.

Perhaps there would be more envy of him if a successful money-maker were oftener a success in any other way.

MACHINE DIGS TUNNEL AND LINES SIDES WITH CONCRETE

MACHINE IN HOLE, WITH NOSE POINTED; IT DOES THE REST

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—A machine which can tunnel underground in any desired direction, removing the earth in its path and leaving behind it a finished conduit, with concrete-lined walls, is the latest thing in subterranean construction work. The new device is the invention of Milton R. Sheen, of Philadelphia, and was given its first practical demonstration recently, when it dug a tunnel under Fifth and Grange streets here in record time.

The beauty of the invention lies in the fact that any amount of sewer main, water main and conduit construction can be carried on beneath streets without causing any interruption to surface traffic. The machine can construct tunnels up to 12 feet in diameter. Engineers, contractors and officials connected with the Philadelphia department of public works predict that present-day methods of engineering underground will be revolutionized with the broad adaption of this device.

The machine itself consists of a steel drum into which is fitted a revolving cutting head, back of which is an earth conveyor, and a helical lining constructor. The power is supplied by electricity from a portable motor.

As the cutting head revolves, tearing and cutting into the earth in front, the arms of the cutter throw the earth into buckets from which it is carried off on a conveyor belt and dumped into cars brought up on tracks laid in the finished tube behind the machine.

The motors and gearing are in the center of the steel drum, also the controls which direct the operation. Electric lights and seats for the operators are provided. Directly behind the motors and gearing is a helical-faced cam, which places the specially constructed lining blocks. The blocks, when pushed into place by the machine, cause an expansion which brings all the heads of the blocks directly behind into close contact and advances the steel drum. The lining is thus fitted into the surrounding earth without disturbance as though it were a part of it. Mortar may be used or the lining may be laid dry, as desired. The blocks are placed in a spiral in order to give the necessary forward motion, which keeps the cutting head in contact with the earth.

Special controls permit the machine to be raised, lowered, or shifted from side to side, enabling it to tunnel in a straight or curved course. Indicators and transits are set up at the rear of the tunnel in order to insure an accurate course for the bore.

The only excavation work in connection with the operation of the device is the digging of a hole large enough to lower the machine to the required level of the projected tunnel. Once set, the current is turned on and the steel drum leaves the excavation and starts on its underground journey without causing any disturbance to the surface of the ground.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Milwaukee is beginning to feel relief in the unemployment situation. Reports show that a large number of men have been placed since the campaign to find work for them began.

VAUDEVILLE BILL AT T. D. & L. THEATRE

Meiklejohn & Dunn's vaudeville road show, featuring 22 people in the five separate acts and the special feature picture production, "The Off-Shore Pirate," starring Viola Dana, is the big special offering at the T. D. & L. theater (formerly the Palace Grand), tonight and Saturday, matinee and evening.

Two headline attractions—both selected for the T. D. & L. vaudeville opening with the fact in view that this theater boasts of a standard full-size vaudeville stage—and can accommodate the usual "full stage" attractions. "The Toyman," a miniature musical comedy with a cast of 14 people, including a chorus of beautiful singing and dancing girls, is the title of the big headline which features Ferris Hartman, noted comedian and musical comedy star.

Jointly headlining this big bill will be the cyclonic comedy success, "Good Night Nurse," a playlet that brings laugh after laugh for 12 minutes. This act opens at the new Pantages theater next Monday and is in Glendale through a special arrangement. Miss Martha Golden, celebrated Eastern comedienne, and her own company, present the act.

In all five acts are on the program—with no advance in the usual T. D. & L. theater prices.

The picture program for today and tomorrow includes Viola Dana in "The Off-Shore Pirate" and "Miracles of the Jungle."

CORK SPELLS NAME OF MISSOURI "DOC"

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 14.—The most freakish "doctor's sign" in the world attests the health of this community. Hanging over the sidewalk is the "shingle" of Dr. J. L. Harwell. It is ten by eighteen inches with the background made up of 3,000 pills, pink pellets predominating. "Doc's" name is spelled out with corks from medicine bottles. Old surgical instruments and bottles decorate the top of the queerest sign.

BOOTLEG GUM

ZION, Ill., Oct. 14.—Following a report that a "bootlegging joint" was selling gumdrops and chewing gum in the Holy City, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, has posted a warning that any member of the choir at Shiloh tabernacle caught chewing gum will be expelled, and that any woman in the audience using the confection will be escorted from the church.

CURFEW REVIVED IN GLENDALE TO PUT DOWN CRIMES

Chief of Police Martin Hopes to Have Old Law Put Into Effect

As one method of curbing the juvenile crime wave in Glendale, Chief of Police Martin suggests that the curfew law be revived. Glendale had such a law and the ordinance still exists, but has not been enforced for several years. According to Chief Martin, if the city had a curfew sound at 9 o'clock every night children who now spend their evenings roaming about the streets would be forced to go home at that hour. They would not be exposed, in that event, to the temptation to commit petty thefts and other crimes, the chief believes.

If a boy has business that requires him to be out after 9 o'clock, a permit to that effect could be secured from the chief of police. Permission to stay out after curfew hour would be permitted to children attending Boy Scout meetings, Y. M. C. A. or similar organizations, and night classes at the school.

The plan of reviving the curfew law was unofficially presented to City Manager Reeves, and he thinks, as does Chief Martin, that such a law would aid materially in the suppression of theft and other petty crimes.

The average boy or girl goes wrong, according to Chief Martin, because they are allowed to roam the streets in the evening until a late hour, and parents are ignorant as to what they are doing. With the curfew law in effect the children would have to spend the greater portion of the evening at home under the eyes of their parents and would be safe from the temptation to do wrong.

ARRESTED IN MAY; TRIED IN OCTOBER

P. Meyers was arrested yesterday by Motorcycle Officers Trautwein and Collins on a warrant dated May 6, after having evaded arrest for five months. Meyers, who is a chauffeur in the employ of H. J. Hauser, 509 Hobart boulevard, Los Angeles, was arrested in Glendale in May for driving his car down Colorado avenue at a 40-mile an hour rate. He was cited to court on May 6 but failed to appear. A warrant for his arrest was issued and a search started.

Yesterday he appeared in Glendale driving the car owned by his employer. Officers Trautwein and Collins remembered his face and placed him under arrest. When first arrested Meyers attempted to deny that he had ever been arrested in Glendale. When the officers snapped the handcuffs on his wrists he admitted that he was the man wanted and his employer later furnished bail for his appearance. His trial was set to take place immediately but on the plea that Mrs. Hauser wished to make a trip to San Diego and required his service as a chauffeur his case was continued until October 21.

GARAGES BEING PUT UP WHILE HOUSES ARE STILL SHORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Parking the baby carriage is more difficult than parking the automobile in New York these days. There are plenty of garages being built, but houses and flats are scarce.

Statistics show that even though home building has increased the number of garages built is considerably above the number of dwellings. This condition obtains in Brooklyn according to the last report of the Bureau of Buildings, and real estate authorities and Building Department officials declare that the same condition obtains in the Bronx. These two boroughs are the home centers of Greater New York.

But even though the garage comes first in the list of new buildings some relief is being afforded the harassed home-seeker. New dwellings are going up steadily and have been since the passage of the tax-exemption ordinance last February made it profitable for builders to commence operations.

Throughout the city prospective builders have filed plans for 12,389 dwelling houses, accommodating 100,000 persons, since February. To be sure, the city gains population at the rate of several hundred thousand persons a year, which means that a big shortage will still exist; but the situation represents a great improvement over the same period last year, when 5,164 building plans, accommodating only 7,632 persons were filed. Brooklyn leads this year in housing construction, having provided homes for about 12,000 families since the first of the year, or more than all the other boroughs combined. The Bronx, which makes a specialty of apartment house construction, comes next, with 106 of these, and 933 dwellings. Last year only seventeen apartment houses and 375 dwellings went up in the Bronx.

KANSAS CITY HIGH STUDENTS GIVE OUT "INSIDE" DOPE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 14.—While Kansas City high school students may be "long" on such subjects as chemistry, French and higher mathematics, their stock of general information is sadly incomplete.

This was the consensus of opinion of several of Kansas City's educators, who are teaching at the Junior College here this fall.

Miss Minnie Perkins, head of the English department at the college, conducted an intelligence test recently in her class.

One student, in a written reply as to what Soviet meant, imparted this bit of misinformation:

"Soviet was the name of the first woman poet." The student's teacher has advised him that Soviet is the new form of Russian government.

Following is a list of amusing and amazing answers:

"Beethoven—The place where Jesus was born."
"Lloyd George—King of England."
"Iliad—A flower."
"Taft—President."
"Caruso—French painter."
"Darwin—Man from whom the labor unions got valuable ideas."
"Newton—The inventor of steam."
"Marathon—A battleship."
"Mikado—Secretary of war."
"Luther—A character in the old testament."
"They shall not pass"—From a poem about "The Brave Six Hundred."
"Utopia—The first block west of Garfield."

OFFICER MANN NOT MANN ARRESTED

An officer on the Los Angeles police force was arrested recently in connection with the activities of an alleged booze ring operating in Los Angeles and Glendale. Due to the similarity of names several people have asked if the officer implicated in the ring is a relative of Sergeant James Mann of the Glendale police force.

The officer arrested in Los Angeles is not related nor connected in any way with Sergeant Mann of the Glendale force. Sergeant Mann has served the city of Glendale efficiently and well for the past three years, first as a patrolman, later as acting desk sergeant and recently, desk sergeant. Sergeant Mann is one of the most efficient officers on the force and is highly respected by his associates and friends.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

IF WE ALL HAD FOOTBALL TRAINING

Chief of Police Mistaken When He Closed Up Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," which had its premiere at the Ritz Theater a few nights ago, served a double purpose. First it introduced Miss Ina Claire in a stellar role under a management other than Mr. Delacour, and secondly, it conclusively demonstrated that New Haven's chief of police made a mountain out of a mole hill when he summarily closed the play during its brief try-out in that academic town.

William Harris, Jr., has done a real service to the play-going public in presenting this work of the French farceur, Alfred Savoir, which enjoyed such a vogue in Paris and other continental cities. It is by far the cleverest concoction seen in New York in many months and will undoubtedly prove a second "Gold Diggers" for Miss Claire.

Few dramatic situations have been more novel or delicately treated than the bonjour scene, which was the one that evidently shocked the head of New Haven's police force. In less experienced hands it might have proved a stumbling block, but Miss Claire, with a wealth of artistry, avoided any suggestion of vulgarity or salaciousness.

No better idea of the story can be given than that contained in the program, as written by the producer. It is:

"A struggle which ensues when a domineering man, who had been accustomed to ride rough shod over women, meets his match. In this case the lady is his wife—the eighth as it happens. Other women attracted him previously, but instead of having affairs with them he married them. When he found he no longer loved them he divorced them. They were merely incidents in his life. In the first act of the play he has found the woman he really loves, but instead of giving in to him at once she proceeds to teach him a lesson. The means which she uses may be a trifle bold, but they are assuredly not indecent, and when she has quite thoroughly convinced this man, whom she loves, how wrong he is every woman in the audience applauds her. She represents the wife of the world."

Translation from the Gallic is always a difficult task, but in this instance Charlotte Andrews, who adapted the piece, has preserved all the sparkling dialogue of the original, besides adding several scintillating lines of unmistakably American origin.

Mr. Harris has surrounded the star with an exceptionally capable company, headed by that sterling actor, Edmond Breese, who assumed the role of the jealous husband at extremely short notice. Next to Miss Claire's is the most appealing role in the play. It has been a long time since a New York audience has witnessed anything more genuinely amusing than Barry Baxter's moment of inebriety. Perhaps the sight of what was supposed to be real champagne should have brought tears to the eyes of a sophisticated audience, but it only served to stimulate waves of hilarious laughter. Even his disrobing scene was robbed of any suggestiveness, for, goodness knows, a man's B. V. D.'s is not unfamiliar to those who watch the advertising signs of the subway.

Anne Meredith and Leonore Harris both capably acquitted themselves in rather thankless roles, and Ernest Stallard as a penurious nobleman and complaisant father looked and acted his part to perfection.

The curtain rose promptly at half past eight, the advertised time, for which Lester Longan and Robert Milton, who staged the piece, deserve unstinted thanks. The three scenes were handsomely mounted by Livingston Platt.

The cast:
The Marquis de Briac... Ernest Stallard
Lucienne... Anne Meredith
John Brandon... Edmond Breese
Monga... Ina Claire
Albert de Marceau... Barry Baxter
Mile. George... Leonore Harris
M. Kay... Jules Epally

WATCH THE DOG IS MISSING

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

"Poor Tad!" thought Nibble Rabbit to himself as he raced through the Deep Woods. "But, clever as they are, it would take two foxes to tree him. Up!" (Here he cleared the end

The house was as dark as the night outside. "They must be asleep," thought he. "I'm not afraid of any place where Tommy Peele lives. I wonder if I couldn't dig in." Scratch-scratch went his feet against the cellar wall hunting for a crack to catch his diggy claw in. But all he could stir was a crumbly bit of plaster from between the stones. "My! But that mud is hard," he puzzled, wiping it off his whiskers. Scratch-scratch.

"Miaur. Pfsst. Mewaur-r-r!" came an angry squall, all muffled by the window pane. "Get away from there or I'll sic our dog on you."

"I wish you would, Mrs. Puss-cat. I wish you would, if you'd be so kind," Nibble laughed back. "I want him."

"Me-e-eat!" she lamented, her wrath melting to a miserable whimper. "I thought you were that horrid cat next door. He comes over and cleans out my dish, right under my nose, while I'm in here starving."

Up went Nibble's ears. "Why, where is he—and where's Tommy Peele?"

"Gone! Everybody's gone! And watch with them. I was snoozing on the best-room quilt where they didn't notice me (they seldom do) so I got locked in. Tommy's cousin, Sandy, does the milking and brings me my meals. He won't think of looking for me as long as anybody eats them. Tonight it was the love-hest chicken bone—"

But Nibble was gone, too. What were her troubles to him. He had troubles of his own. Who-oh, who-oh could help him rescue poor Tad Coon?

Tax Revision Temporary Say Smoot and Penrose

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Taxation systems and plans are the chief topic of general discussion in Congress these days.

The whole subject of taxation has been thrown open by the admissions of Senators Penrose and Smoot that the present tax revision is only temporary, being rushed now for the purpose of relieving the country from some of the more obnoxious war taxes and freeing business from the worst of its stifling tax burdens. They announce that soon a general revision of the taxation system of the country must be undertaken and a more scientific plan of taxation substituted for the catch-revenue scheme now in operation.

All tax theorists of House and Senate agree that there shall be no abandonment of the general plan of imposing taxes on incomes and on inheritances. These taxes seem certain to stay, but the systems under which they shall be imposed and the rates will be the subject for debate in Congress until a plan better than that now in operation is adopted.

Representatives of new schools of thought in tax matters are arising in Congress. For the most part they present old systems of taxation clothed in new details. Senator Smoot and Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey, are urging substitution of a general sales tax for the multitude of small taxes now levied. They claim that a 1 per cent sales tax, avoiding many of the turnovers in sales, will produce $1,000,000,000. The tax can be adjusted easily to produce necessary revenue.

Representative Oscar E. Keller, of Minnesota, leading a number of western representatives, is pressing for a land values tax. At a small rate, but easily adjustable, it can be made to yield, he claims, sufficient revenues to meet the government needs, and worse indiscriminate taxation can be done away with.

Older members of Congress, who have seen many changes in tax systems declare that, with the changing sentiment in the country as to taxation methods, there will come some combination scheme of a sales tax and a land value tax that will wipe out the present system of hodge-podge taxes and base a Federal internal revenue tax system on incomes, inheritances, general sales and land values.

The sales tax has grown in Congressional favor rapidly during recent months. It is held in abeyance now for imposition in the event a soldier cash bonus, with its $1,500,000,000 demands, is authorized by Congress at the next session. Once it is adopted as a part of the tax system it will remain permanently, is the general prediction. After payment of the soldier bonus its revenues will be used for ordinary expenses of the government.

The land values tax has not so many advocates at the present time, but it is coming more and more to the front in all tax discussions, especially when western men participate. They are advocating it for the double purpose of freeing themselves from the many small taxes and to force monopolistic land owners to pay huge taxes, or to throw their holdings on the market. Vast estates are held in idleness, they contend, by the great lumber companies, by the oil and other mining companies, and by the hydro-electric water power companies, all waiting for future development of the country for exploitation by the owners.

These vast tracts of unimproved lands are taxed but little by the States, and this has aroused resentment by the State taxpayers, it is said, who claim that they must pay the taxes on their developments for the benefit of the rich landowners, who can afford to wait until improvements march up to their property, when they will reap a wonderful harvest on their investment. Stiff Federal taxes on such land values will have the effect, it is believed, of forcing some of these vast holdings from their owners and, through their development in small holdings, enrich both state and nation.

Wrist Powder Box

It's worn like a watch and looks like a timepiece. It wasn't a wrist watch that gleamed golden on the slender white arm extended to the strap in the subway car. Passengers noticed and wondered why the octagonal gold case on the neat strap had neither dial nor hands visible. Perhaps it was something new in "hunting case" wrist watches. Or perhaps something new in lockets. It was neither. Some of the passengers who watched the passenger as she left the train at a busy station saw her open the gold lid of the wrist ornament and extract therefrom a powder puff, which she applied to her nose, carefully watching the operation in a small mirror under the lid of the box.

BAD CHECK MAN IS EXPLAINING ALL

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—R. L. Gates, a Milwaukee real estate man, who claims to be the son of James L. Gates, owner of 22,000 acres near Eau Claire, Wis., occupied a cell at the detective bureau today, charged with issuing $50,000 in bad checks. He was apprehended through the shrewdness of a Boston maker of rubber stamps. He was arrested in Boston after he had ordered a rubber check certificate stamp from a manufacturer who took the trouble to look up his antecedents before delivering the stamp. He laid the matter before the police and they found a circular from the Chicago police asking them to watch for Gates. Gates insisted it was all a mistake. He says his predicament is due to a bad check he took in payment of 2200 acres of land near Eau Claire, which he sold to a man in Billings, Mont. The checks turned back against him, he insists, were written against the Billings (Mont.) check.

MAN IN WASHINGTON WHO TELLS YOU WHAT HARDING IS DOING

RAYMOND CLAPPER

PRESIDENT HARDING

In an anteroom in Chicago's sweltering Coliseum one day in June, 1920, Raymond Clapper stood at the elbow of Warren G. Harding when the thousands in the big auditorium broke into a roar that told of the selection of the big Ohioan as the Republican presidential nominee. Clapper was there for a purpose. He was waiting for that roar. In less than two minutes he had dashed to the United-Press wire on the platform with the next President's first statement after his nomination. Of course it was a "beat." Beats are a habit with Clapper.

After getting the statement and putting it on the United Press wire, Ray hurried back and has been with the President ever since.

He accompanied Mr. Harding on his campaign tours and reported those front-porch speeches throughout the campaign and now he has the White House assignment for the United Press and this newspaper in Washington.

Almost daily you read in the GLENDALE DAILY PRESS his stories of what the President is doing. Clapper is a graduate of Kansas State University's school of journalism and has been with the United Press since 1915.

Dry Political Machine Makes Washington Politicians 'Sick'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Political Washington is laughing and not a few members of congress are inclined to indignation over an adroit move engineered by the Anti-Saloon league leaders to build up throughout the country a smoothly welded dry machine capable of wielding tremendous political power.

The dark, deep, dank plot, as it is unhesitatingly called by some senators, was discovered in its budding youth. The ax was forthwith applied to it, but not before it had caused some uneasy moments for a lot of senators and representatives who are to come up for re-election next year.

The plot had its inception in the re-organization of the prohibition enforcement division. Until a few months ago the United States was divided into regional sections of three and four states each, with a regional director at the head of each.

Reorganization by States.

When the Republican new broom whisked into Washington, it was decided to make enforcement of the dry law a matter of states instead of sections. The enforcement division was overhauled, the old regional directors dispensed with and an it was proposed to inaugurate forty-eight state directors, each with his personnel, and responsible for the enforcement of the law in his own particular state.

The Anti-Saloon leaders, usually quick to suspect and to question any new legislation affecting the enforcement of the dry law, interposed no objection to the reorganization. In fact, they were for it. Everything looked lovely. Senators had more patronage at their disposal, the dry watchdogs were satisfied and nobody had any kick.

Then the wheels began to revolve. Quietly and ostensibly the Anti-Saloon league representatives began to go to individual senators and recommend the men they desired to be named as state directors.

Know Their Men.

The Anti-Saloon League is a highly efficient organization. It has its organization and its paid workers in every state in the Union. And the men it recommended as state directors were men whose views were well known and acceptable to the league.

The recommendation of the Anti-Saloon League leaders usually carried considerable weight with the individual senators approached. As has been said, it is a militant organization, with branches in every state. And in a majority of the cases the senator endorsed the Anti-Saloon League candidate for the job of director to the prohibition commissioner for appointment. One job more or less did not matter, especially when it involved the support or opposition of the Anti-Saloon League at home.

Working quietly and smoothly, the Anti-Salooners made good progress.

"Nigger in Woodpile."

Then by chance, according to the gossip of the cloakrooms, a few senators got to comparing notes. They began to suspect there was a dark gentleman in the woodpile. Inquiries were made of their colleagues, and it slowly began to dawn upon them that the officers of the Anti-Saloon League were naming all these state directors.

"Think what that means!" exploded one indignant senator to his alarmed colleagues. "The officers of the Anti-Saloon League name the state directors, and the state directors name the enforcement agents. In some states the enforcement personnel numbers around three hundred men. It's a cinch the Anti-Saloon state directors are going to name their friends and not their enemies for the enforcement jobs."

"Multiply those figures by forty-eight and where are you? Why, if we let this thing go through they certainly are going to have a tight little corporation on the enforcement end of prohibition, and what's worse, they're going to have a sweet little machine in every state in this country."

An informal check was made of the senators who had endorsed the Anti-Saloon League's candidates to the prohibition commissioner. It was found to be surprisingly large, according to best reports.

A few days later senators began to drift down one by one to the prohibition bureau and withdraw the endorsements they had previously given. Some senators didn't, but a good many did.

They substituted names of their own choosing and thereafter began to breathe easier.

LANE FUND WILL BE OPENED AT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Decision to open the Franklin K. Lane memorial fund to public participation is announced by the memorial committee composed of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolph C. Miller, member of the Federal Reserve board. This decision, in view of the widespread appreciation of the obligation which rests on the friends and admirers of his widow, which the slender emoluments of public office make impossible.

The income from the fund will accrue to Mrs. Lane during her lifetime, after which the committee held it probably would be used to promote work in the field of Americanization to which the former Secretary of the Interior devoted a great part of his labors.

UNDERTAKERS SAY TOO MANY MEMBERS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 14.—Americans are extravagant in funerals, and it is not the undertaker who should be blamed for the high cost of funerals, according to a report adopted by the National Funeral Directors' Association, in convention here today. A committee on legislation declared that there are 13,000 too many undertakers in the United States, and that this is causing high prices on funerals. The number should be reduced by Federal legislation, raising the requirements for license as an embalmer, it was declared.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

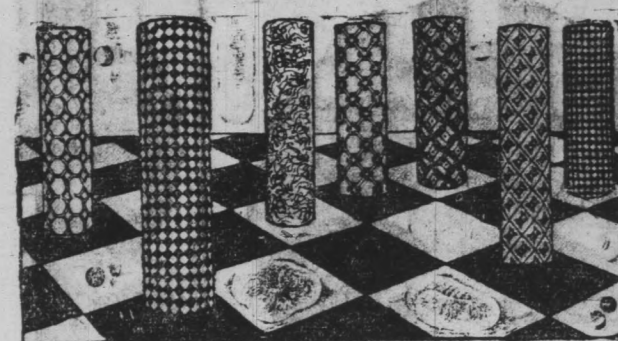

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready to use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

LINOLEUM

How to Lay and Care for It

RIGHTLY speaking, linoleum is a floor, not merely a floor covering. When laid properly, it will last for years, and if given reasonable care, will retain its attractive appearance indefinitely.

The laying of linoleum is not a simple task. It requires considerable experience before one learns how to cut the goods to avoid waste, and how to lay the material so as to prevent the buckling and cracking that may occur, due to faulty workmanship. Therefore, it will likely prove cheaper in the end, and most assuredly will give you greater satisfaction, if you employ our skilled workmen to lay your linoleum for you, instead of trying to do the work yourself. Our charges are reasonable; they include only the cost of materials and labor.

First—We lay the linoleum over felt paper, which makes it as permanent as hardwood or cement. (This is optional to the party).

Second—We give a perfect fit, making it snug around pipes and projections.

Third—We use a linoleum paste for pasting the edges to the floor, which saves in bubbles, buckling and cracking.

Fourth—Our 150-pound linoleum roller is run over to insure perfect adhesion.

Fifth—We place heavy weights on the seams and edges and allow them to remain for 24 hours, this guarantees adhesion.

Reasonable care and proper treatment will add greatly to the appearance and life of your linoleum.

When washing is necessary, use a mild soap and tepid water, not hot, rinse with clear water and then dry thoroughly.

On printed linoleum a coat of high grade varnish or shellac will make a surface that will wear for months without wearing on the linoleum itself.

Inlaid or plain linoleum will last longer, and the brightness of the colors will be retained and renewed, if you go over the surface every five or six weeks with some good liquid floor wax or polish.

Do not use too much polish of any kind, but rub it well. It is very easy to keep linoleum clean that is waxed and polished occasionally.

AMERICAN RIFLE SHOOTERS AHEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The American man and the American rifle today are the supreme shooting combination of the world.

The American's general superiority has hitherto been conceded by most nations, although the Swiss, which like the Americans are a "nation of riflemen," have been close contenders and have held certain world records which even the Americans could not capture.

Recent rifle matches, however, establish the American shooting man as the champion rifleman of the world. Like Switzerland, America contains thousands of shooting clubs, encouraged by the government, and by the government supplied with the regular army rifle.

It took the recent series of shooting matches over the country, however, to show to advantage the remarkable skill of some American riflemen. During one match, for instance, a world's record was hung up by Sergeant Thomas B. Crawley, a marine, who shot 176 bullseyes in succession at 800 yards. This is believed by rifle experts to be a record for consecutive bullseyes at any range. Another remarkable record was made during the Wimbledon match, where another marine, Sergeant J. W. Adkins, rang up seventy-five consecutive bullseyes at 1,000 yards. He had previously made seventy bullseyes at the distance. At 1,100 yards Sergeant Thos. P. Jones, also a marine, made sixty-six bullseyes successively, while at 1,200 yards a record of forty-one shots was made.

Married Men in America 'Charming' But Spoiled

Princess Antoine Bibesco

Rev. Bernard Vaughn

Arnold Bennett

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Have we evolved a national philosophy of conduct between the sexes?

It is quietly understood among American women that they must keep man guessing? Do all the married sisterhood who manage to hold their husbands' love play the game according to the rules? And do the losers fall to abide by them?

Be that as it may, foreigners continue alternately to be amused or angered at the outer aspect of married life in the United States.

Princess Antoine Bibesco, wife of the Roumanian attaché at Washington and daughter of Margot Asquith, whose saucy book about personages in England caused a storm of criticism, has some ideas of her own about men and women of America. She says:

"American men are charming, but it's just because they are so charming that the women aren't so nice. They are utterly spoiled and good for nothing."

"Nevertheless, American women as a general thing are more intellectually ambitious than English women."

Shame on you, Princess, for "spoiled and good for nothing." You are almost as catty as your mother, Margot!

Not so long ago another European, Professor Albert Einstein, whose theory of "Relativity" which made him famous and which is understood, he says, by only 12 people in the world, made some observations about us of America.

"Women dominate the entire life of America. The men interest themselves in nothing else but work. They think of nothing but work—and to an extent I have never seen before. As for the rest of the men, they are nothing but the little play-dogs of the women, who spend their money in a reckless manner and veil themselves in a mist of extravagance. They do everything for the women that is in vogue or the whim of the passing moment."

Now, as always, the problem of what a man should do, what a woman should do, how husbands and wives should treat each other, is an engrossing one. Recently in Philadelphia the New Century Guild, a woman's organization, got together in heated congress and declared if a woman could catch a man there is no reason why she could not keep him caught.

All of which leads up to the set of rules to conduct the guild formulated for the guidance of distraught women.

Philadelphia Guild Raps Men Folk

Beforehand remarks were made to cause masculine ears to burn all about the City of Brotherly Love. Men got theirs. Note this:

"Men try to make women think they are doing them a great honor in marrying them, and then, if the women do not keep themselves looking up to par, always sweet and dainty, and ready to be kissed, no matter how much they are battered about, they will soon be neglected."

With that as a start, the guild gives these inside tips on the marital race.

"Don't be shocked if friend husband emits an occasional damn; it doesn't mean anything."

"Don't scramble around on the floor hunting for his shirt stud; let him look for it; it will do him good."

(There's a loophole for European criticism.)

"Don't ask him to shine your shoes. (Wouldn't this surprise Einstein?)"

"Never antagonize him; but always keep him guessing."

"Let the man do the proposing, and when he does, be responsive. Being too coy is dangerous, for some men won't ask the second time."

"Make the man think he is 'it.'"

In brief, let him swear and think he is "it." But keep him guessing as to your love and to the whereabouts of his studs. Thus does woman join the collar button as an ally, both designed to drive men mad.

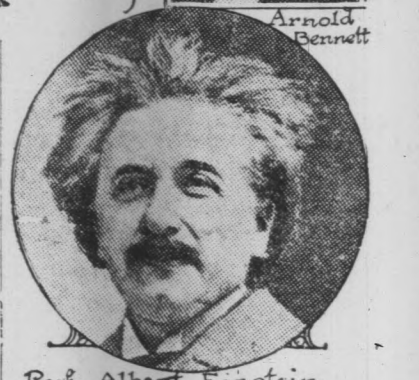

But America is not alone in setting up rules for marital felicity. England herself recognizes the importance of promoting love and peace in the home, and such well-known men as Arnold Bennett, the writer, and the Rev. Bernard Vaughn, have given their attention to the subject. To husbands the noted English divine says:

British Minister's Advice

"Be kind and thoughtful to your wife. Bear with her little feminine ways. Never attempt to check the flowing tide of her talk. This is a cardinal rule."

"What ever else you may try to check in your wife, never check her chatter. A woman needs many safety valves and outlets for her temperment."

"Be patient and tender with her."

Prof. Albert Einstein

Don't say sharp and cutting things. Consider the sensitive character of a woman's disposition. Honor her in every way.

"Bear yourself with the manliness which will never cause a woman pain."

"Most women have a passion for finery in some form or other. Give her what you can, even if it costs you some sacrifice. Let her feel it is from you, and that you have not given her what has cost you nothing."

"If anything goes wrong in married life, I usually put the blame on the man. He is the stronger and he should overcome himself and protect the wife of his heart, lending her a strong arm on which to lean."

Some Admonitions for Women

And to the women this advice:

"Keep your home in good order. Man appreciates a beautiful home more than a woman does, because he is in less."

"Let the sun stream through your windows upon rooms tastefully arranged and bearing from kitchen to attic the traces of a true wifely devotion to the house."

"Keep a good table. Let it be impossible for any individual distinctions to be drawn between 'meals out' and meals at home. The dinner may be simple, but let it be good, hot and daintily served."

"Let a wife remember always to be neat and smart even when she is quite alone with her husband. A man likes to see his wife well turned out, and it is her business to be pleasing in his eyes."

"Let her consult his taste rather than that of her modiste."

"Do not get into the habit of contradicting at your husband's cherished views from mere perversity, but study to gratify, within reasonable limits, his whims and fancies."

"Be frank and aboveboard in everything."

"Do not keep him waiting while you change your dress."

"Never preach, never nag, never scold in public, and never cry on purpose."

"Have I spoken only of the trivial little things? Believe me, it is these things that count for more in marriage than the big things. When marriage ends in tragedy it is more often than not due to small bickerings and misunderstandings."

Arnold Bennett Springs Surprise

So much for a man who has spent a lifetime in observing and guiding humanity. Now for the views of another of his countrymen, Arnold Bennett, novelist and essayist.

Mr. Bennett believes much of the trouble in marriage, the misunderstandings, the little inequalities, are due to too many love matches. He would abolish to some extent the marriage based entirely on love. He says:

"At which expression of opinion many readers will be angry, and some very angry. What! Adopt the heartless continental system of the deliberately arranged marriage, the marriage of convenience! Well, nobody wants to abolish love in marriage and nobody could. But we must understand what we mean when we say 'love.'"

"The majority of love matches are matches of passion which, too frequently, no practical consideration has been allowed to restrain."

"The passion must settle down into a solid and enduring calm affection, or it may wither into a tolerant mutual indifference, or it may degenerate into acute dislike. At best, the disillusion is serious; at worst it is appalling."

"Therefore I welcome the decline of the love match in Anglo-Saxon countries. For, if in France, for example, 'reason' in marriage has ruled too absolutely, in Britain, for example, passion has ruled too, absolutely, and there is now some hope that we may be approaching the happy mean."

Women to Have Their Rights

"In the opinion of women men have hitherto had a better time than women. (Some men would attempt to deny this, but I do not think it can be successfully denied.) Women are now determined to have as good a time as men."

BREAK INTO JAIL TO GET WHITE MULE

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Oct. 14.—You may lock up the bootlegger and moonshiner and his goods, but they'll get their liquor still. This is what local authorities said as they scratched their heads one morning when they arose and saw by the light of the rising sun that someone had broken into the jail during the night or early morning and removed a quantity of white mule together with five stills. This had been held as evidence against a band of bootleggers.

The liquor and the stills were sequestered in such a place and were under such "strong" locks that the thought of outsiders stealing the evidence never once entered the minds of the authorities. Perplexing, isn't it, they say, for this is what they had to do.

The liquor and stills were stored in one of the cells which was secured with a Yale lock. A dog chain was placed through the bars of the door and cell and clamped fast to the lock. On the outside of the jail was the "burglar proof" lock, which the Council had passed upon as one that could withstand the efforts of all to open within or without.

All keys to this outer lock have been accounted for and all that remains to be solved is how they broke into the jail.

RESEMBLES BEER IN EVERY DETAIL

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The bottle looks like a beer bottle. The contents look and taste like beer. If you drink two bottles before going to bed you have a thirst in the morning.

This is the very high testimonial given by a clergyman of Auchtermarder, Scotland, to a beverage which is being supplied to the good folk of that town, bereft of the real "goods" by the recent "dry" vote in the poll taken under the Scottish Prohibition act.

There had, it seems, been a demand for what is described as something with the external without the internal qualities of alcoholic liquor; though the parson's certificate appears to show that the internal qualities are not altogether unsatisfying.

And meanwhile Auchtermarder is drinking "Success of Temperance" in liquor that "looks and tastes like beer" and leaves that noble thirst which has to be assuaged the morning after.

SALEM BLUE LAWS MAKE PEOPLE "SICK"

SALEM, W. Va., Oct. 14.—This city is now writhing in the throes of a new Sunday blue law, the result of a four to two vote by the city council. All places of business are shut tight every Sunday, and you can't even buy an ice cream cone or a soda water. Opponents say the new order of things will last about three or four weeks and cite the experience of the town of Richwood, where a Sunday-closing law was tried out, but proved to be so unpopular and exasperating that it was repealed within three weeks.

JAPS ARRESTED

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 14.—County deputy sheriffs and state law enforcement officers raided the Japanese steamer Glasgow Maru here yesterday and seized a quantity of Scotch whisky and arrested two of the crew on charges of violating the prohibition law.

mined that in marriage there shall be a vast deal less subjection than there was.

"But then the intellectual independence of American wives has been quickened by the habit which American husbands have of looking at their wives as their official representatives in society, and, indeed, of expecting their wives to act regularly as such."

"A man who provides week by week the materials means of life for a household is entitled to expect that the mistress of the household shall put herself to the trouble of charming him. And heaven knows that the simple fellow is easily charmed."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

POSING

This little miss is quite a figure in swimming circles. She is Miss Marie Curtis, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, who is probably the most consistent distance swimmer in California. She won the Pacific Coast mile championship for women, at Capitola, in the last time of 32 minutes, 53 and 35 seconds. On September 10 she set a new record for the famous Golden Gate swim, at San Francisco Harbor, covering the difficult course in 25 minutes and 14 seconds, which is 2 minutes and 1 second faster than the former mark. She is eighteen years old.

War's Baptismal Fire Gives Dignity to Garçons

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.—Tales galore have been told of the beneficent effects of shell fire upon certain types of recalcitrant human souls and a goodly share of those doubtless have been told of and by the French, who are by nature both introspective and dramatic.

There is the hackneyed story of the handsome fickle husband who discovers his great love for his wife only after weeks of harrowing experiences at the front and there is that other sterling cinema motif, the terrible Apache dragged from the haunts of crime in the Montmartre to be redeemed by his baptism of fire and saved for a life of social usefulness.

These and similar themes are understood and appreciated by the French, savant and layman alike, but according to advice reaching here from the capital on the Seine a new form of psychological aftermath of the war has shown itself and has both the "boobs" and the learned ones in a dilemma.

This puzzling phenomenon has to do with waiters, the well-known and justly celebrated garçons of Paris. They are up in arms against the pourboire, or tip, which they decline to take on the ground that it is degrading.

That the Parisian public should have been, in a manner of speaking, knocked off its pins by this announcement was perhaps no more than to be expected, for in the mind of the average intelligent person the affinity existing between garçons and pourboires was nothing less than the between ham and eggs, liver and onions, or any of the other old familiar soul-mates. Nevertheless, the Syndicate of Hotel, Cafe and Restaurant Employees, which in the United States would be called the Waiters' Union, has declared a deadly, uncompromising war upon the tip.

The cafe proprietors assert that the waiters have become pretentious which is "frog" for swell-headed. The public is inclined to dismiss the phenomenon with that all-embracing explanation, "c'est la guerre." In both of these characterizations the scientists of the Sorbonne concur, though their specific explanation is more elaborate.

They declare that as the war developed in France the nation did not dream of its resources of strength and courage, so it produced among individuals new and unexpected phases of dignity and self-respect. Men who made possible the realization of that immortal dictum, "On ne passe pas" ("They shall not pass"), must of necessity, they assert, look with repugnance upon the idea of fawning before a customer for a tip.

However that may be, it is undoubtedly true that practically every able-bodied waiter in Paris, that city renowned for the number and excellence of its cafes and restaurants, saw service in the World War. It is also true that the resolutions drawn up by the Waiters' Syndicate lay especial emphasis upon the fact that the tip-giver, seems to expect a demonstration of servility in return for his gift. It must be admitted, however, that the resolutions bring out other and less sentimental phases of the problem.

After pointing out that many waiters receive no fixed salary and that the pourboire therefore is in reality often a pourmanager, the resolutions state:

"Income derived from tips is at best uncertain; it depends largely upon the generosity and not infrequently upon the simplicity of the customers. Ten or twelve per cent added to hotel bills and to the price of refreshments at cafes and restaurants would provide a more certain basis on which to calculate the waiters' weekly earnings. It is, however, a question of amour propre. Though few of the public seem to realize it, the tip, in fact wages, and in many cases the only wages paid in respect of the service rendered, but it is too often given with an air of philanthropic benevolence which seems to demand from the recipient an obsequious gratitude.

"Hotel personnel and garçons of cafes and restaurants resent this attitude; they believe that their calling is no less worthy of respect than that of other wage earners and that they are equally entitled, without avoiding incivility, to preserve their spirit of independence."

To those who object that abolition of tips would remove the incentive to please their customers the waiters retort that experience shows that no such argument applies to shop assistants. In each case the remedy for incivility is the same; the client can complain to the employer.

The Syndicate of Paris Hotel Proprietors are, however, resolutely opposed to the addition of any percentage to hotel bills to cover tips. They declare that tips should be proportioned to the service rendered, and that if the employee was assured a fixed sum in the bill the proprietor instead of the customer would pay. Moreover, hotel keepers foresee that sooner or later the personnel would demand the right to inspect their books.

SOLDIER PRAYS IN ROME; WALKS NOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Not only have some of Uncle Sam's ex-soldiers had occasion to call him ungrateful, but some of his present soldiers feel they have a big kick coming. In recognition of their work a large number of men were elevated to sergeancies from the ranks some months ago. Washington ruled this had been done without proper authority and not only ordered the men reduced but directed that they should pay back to the Government the difference between a private's pay and that of a sergeant for the period they had received it.

The case of Private Perry C. Curtis, quartermaster corps detachment at the Presidio, is an example.

He received as a private $33 a month. The order directs him to pay back $23.35 a month. He has a wife and two children to support. The war family allowances have been discontinued. As a private he does not even have quarters for his family. A point has been strained to permit the wife and two children to stay in their quarters.

That Curtis might provide food for his family, General William H. Wright, commanding the Ninth Army Corps, directed that he be furloughed for three months. Curtis was unable to find outside employment, but has been doing civilian work about the army camp which enables him to eke out a few dollars. There are many other such cases, it is stated, although only a few have families.

Congress will be asked to remedy the situation.

REVENGE WAS CAUSE OF ATTEMPT TO ROB BANK

German and Swiss Decide to Declare War on Government of United States

CHUGWATER, Wyo., Oct. 14.—The hatred of two German sympathizers for America is believed by county officials here to have been the motive of an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Chugwater State Bank by Adolph Pfinder and Herman J. Kusel.

The two men drew up to the bank in an automobile during the noon hour, rushed to the bank counter and ordered Cashier Robert Rollins to throw up his hands. Ducking beneath the counter Rollins grabbed a gun and opened fire on the bandits, seriously wounding Kusel.

Pfinder escaped but was captured two days later in Bushnell, Neb., 110 miles from the scene of the holdup, after being trailed by a posse of deputy sheriffs.

In a confession to authorities here Pfinder declared that the attempt to rob the bank was the first step in a "declaration of war" that Kusel and himself had made upon the United States.

According to the alleged confession Kusel, who was German born and was in this country when the world war broke out, conspired with Pfinder, a Swiss by birth, to come to America and help in securing information that might aid Germany in the war. Pfinder was prevented, however, from leaving a German dye factory where he was employed, and did not reach the United States until a few months ago, when he joined Kusel in opening a clothing store in Bushnell, Neb.

Their mutual hatred for this country, according to the confession, led the pair to devise new ways of venting their festering spleen, and the warped reasoning of fanaticism eventually resulted in an alleged decision to combine revenge with profit by striking at what they conceived to be America's pocketbook. This, they decided, might best be accomplished by the robbery of banks, the pair believing that all banks were owned by the government, according to their confession.

Kusel was interned at Fort Douglas, Utah, from March 12, 1918, until several months after the signing of the armistice, according to Federal officials. He was arrested at Sterling, Col., where he was conducting a second-hand store. According to the report made to the Department of Justice at that time, the arresting agents found a large quantity of "spit-fire," much dynamite and dozens of rifles, revolvers and boxes of ammunition in the store.

"Spitfire" was a preparation said to have been employed by enemy alien agents in setting fire to munition factories and bridges.

BOY BRAVES DEATH TO SAVE BABY GIRL

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Dangling perilously over the face of a 100-foot cliff, away at the beck and call of the winds and the weight of his body at the end of a frayed family clothesline, Louis Matis, seventeen, took upon himself the role of Alpine rescuer to save a babe of eighteen months from a plunge to almost certain death.

Matis, with other youths of his own age, has a camp at the foot of the Rocky River cliffs near a bridge on Loraine avenue. The boys were busily engaged washing up the supper dishes when they heard a scream, and looking upwards, saw baby Jeanette Mills tumbling and sliding over the face of the cliff. Her sister, Helen, aged five, was shrieking and starting, uncertainly in an attempt to rescue her baby sister. Matis yelled to the child to stand back, just as the baby came to rest on a narrow ledge that formed a hollow pocket fifteen or twenty feet from the top.

Accompanied by the two other boys Matis hastened to the top by a round-about path, and found the mother almost hysterical and unable to do anything to rescue her child. He seized a length of frayed clothesline, looped and tied it under his arms, and his two companions held fast to the end while he dropped and shovels over the cliff and was lowered to the ledge where the baby squirmed about, seemingly unaware of its imminent danger.

Fearing every moment that the frayed strands would part, Matis seized the baby and called to the others to "haul away." Fortunately, however, the rope was equal to the strain, and in a few moments rescued and rescuer were safe.

Matis, blushing in embarrassment, rushed away to avoid the thanks which were heaped upon him.

A Carnegie hero medal will be asked for him.

PASSAMAQUODDY TRIBE ASKING AID

Boston, Oct. 14.—"Lo, the poor Indian!"

Led by Chief William Neptune, the 471 survivors of the once-powerful Passamaquoddy tribe are planning a last stand for their former domain.

The Indians lay claim to lands about Princeton, Me., which they say were granted to the tribe by Massachusetts in 1795; when Maine was part of the Bay State. Chief Neptune has sought to enlist the aid of Governor Cox, of Massachusetts, in an effort to regain the land for his followers. He charges that the State of Maine seized the land and sold it for a dollar an acre.

A "pow-wow" of the remaining members of the tribe is planned, at which a campaign will be drawn up. The equities are to be given "political" equality by the braves at the conference.

The children, both blondes, have been described as the most beautiful blonde children in England. He is a graduate of Harvard University and also attended Oxford University.

Smuggling Across Border Making Fortunes in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Oct. 14.—Fortunes are being made, according to reports here, by men who are engaged in the business of getting immigrants across the border into the United States. It is said that few of the arrivals from Europe are detained at the border if their journey is directed by one of the skillful agents engaged in this new man smuggling.

Those who are caught by immigration agents are waits who "go on their own hook" because they are financially unable to hire an agent to guide and advise them. These, on landing at a gulf port, start at once for the border. Some have shrewd advice and manage to get across, but once across they usually attract attention.

Those who are helped by the professional aiders of border-jumpers are guided after they enter the United States until they reach a place in which they are more or less secure. They leave trains at points some distance from the border and complete their journey by motor car. The border is crossed in various ways, the methods depending upon the number of men in a party.

Not long ago, when delegates to a convention made a sight-seeing trip to a Mexican town on the border, an agent guiding a party of border-jumpers was in some way able to get badges similar to those worn by the delegates. These he distributed among the members of his party. They were able to cross without interference and board a train for the interior of the United States.

Usually, however, the agents do not put their parties aboard trains at important border cities, where close watch is kept. They have made an intelligent study of the risk they face and have ways or routing their charges which reduce to a minimum the danger of detection.

The men who are able and willing to pay for the service of these agents, it is said, have friends in the United States who have places waiting for them in stores and shops. Most of them are from Russia and Poland.

Their instructions include ways of avoiding trouble after they reach their havens in the United States. As an example, if they go to work in places in Chicago they tell of having worked for several years in Philadelphia and are able to name places at which men of their kind are employed. If they go to Philadelphia they tell of having worked for years in Chicago.

All are warned to be careful not to talk about "the old country" except in the privacy of the homes of those who shelter them.

This training, it is said, actually begins before the newcomers take ship from Europe, and does not end until they are delivered into the hands of their friends.

The system, as outlined here by a man who asserts that he is in possession of complete information, indicates that some persons of unusual intelligence have worked out the plan and that it is being carried out by a very intelligent organization.

RED-HAIRED HASH SLINGERS OUSTED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Brisk trading in red wigs, during which approximately 200 were "cased in" at a downtown restaurant, marked development in a labor demonstration when all the women waitresses at the cafe inaugurated the first "sex strike" in the city's history on learning men were to take their places. The henna-hued head pieces were a part of the regalia the women were required to wear. The management made reimbursement.

WRONG PEW

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 14.—Jones Ruby, an Indian, has had his debut as a burglar under circumstances rather mortifying to himself. Illy-informed, he chose for his operations the home of Sheriff Montgomery, south of the city. Appreciating that he had been heard he dropped out of a bathroom window into the welcoming arms of the stout sheriff himself.

YESTERDAY

TODAY

Foley's Friendly Fancies

A WINTER NIGHT'S TALE
Come, Children dear, and you shall hear
The strangest tale I know;
One winter night, the sky was bright,
The earth all white with snow,
When Simple Simon's Pieman came
And set upon my floor
A great mince pie, and called my name,
Then vanished out the door.

Soon could be seen a sprig of green
At first so very small,
The strangest thing—what could it mean,
It grew so fast and tall,
And higher yet, but well I knew
The meaning bye and bye:
Twas Jack's Great Bean Stalk there that grew
Up out of that mince pie.

And bye and bye from out the pie
Where that great Bean Stalk grew
So big and green and very high,
I saw Jack coming, too;
And when he got himself all out
As did he in good time,
With many a cry and merry shout
We both set out to climb

Soon after while we'd climbed a mile
Right straight above the town,
Till with a very merry smile
He bade me, too, look down;
And there I saw both Jack and Jill
With screams, all black and blue,
Go rolling, tumbling down the hill
And both broke right in two.

Then Cinderella in her coach
Went gaily riding by,
Till on the street I saw her meet
Jack Horner with his pie,
And when she took one hungry look,
What do you think, I pray?
He ate the plum and sucked his thumb
And scampered right away.

Soon I saw Tom the Piper's Son
Who stole the pig, Oh, Oh!
Run might and main down Muffet lane
As fast as he could go;
Until he tripped and sprawled and slipped
As well he might, I say,
With luck the worst and fell head first
Into her curds and whey.

With shriek and shout he clambered out,
A sorry sight to see;
Till Mother Hubbard heard him shout
And said: "My, Goodness me!"
She stilled his cries and wiped his eyes
And dripping face, Oh my!
And high where Humpty Dumpty sat
She set him up to dry.

Then came a scream as in some dream
That startled me full well,
And from the tall moss-covered wall
Poor Humpty Dumpty fell;
Oh, it was rash—and such a crash!
He bounded like a ball
Until with one tremendous splash
He burst—and that was all.

I was so shocked the Bean Stalk rocked,
How 'twas I cannot tell,
But headlong down upon my crown
I fell and fell and fell,
And Oh the bump and Oh the lump
That rose upon my head,
For with one great, resounding thump
I'd fallen out of bed!

Boys everywhere, I say beware
(If you be great or small)
The second slice and think full twice
Before you eat it all;
For Mother Goose played fast and loose
With such a goose as I,
And you can see what happened me
From too much hot mince pie.

OPIUM PRICE GOES UP; CHINKS ARE WILD

HONOLULU, Oct. 14.—There is weeping and gnashing of teeth today in certain sections of Honolulu's Chinatown, for the price of opium has hit the unprecedented level of $150 a tin and is almost unobtainable at any price, according to "inside information" obtained by the customs inspectors in charge of this end of the work.

The latest jump in the price of dream stuff is the third within one month, customs officials say. A month ago seventy American dollar jesses soon as they sell the city barns Mister Vissman sed what's wun of the best reporters in the world an we are goin to have a new postoffice also for the Republicans an I dont gess we will no who is postmaster till they sell the city barns also. drug is attributed to the presence in Hawaiian waters of the new revenue cutter Earp, manned by a vigilant and efficient crew, who keep remorselessly on the trail of suspected smugglers and dealers in the drug. A few days ago a well-planned raid resulted in the removal of 432 tins of opium from the market, a loss of about $60,000 to illicit traffickers and the shortage thus created has resulted in the latest jump in price.

LOGGING CAMP

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Henry Ford has started logging operations on 13 forties he owns just south of Sidon, in Houghton county. Six buildings are being erected to house the crews. The rate of pay will be $2.80 a day and board. Later when the crews are reduced to the most efficient workers, $4 a day and board will be paid.
